BLUEBEARD FOUND JOY IN KILLING WIVES

Confession of J. B. Watson an Amazing Document; 'Voice' Told Him to Murder

Los Angeles, May 1.—"I had an insatiable desire to marry women and then kill then. After I had killed one, a feeling of peace would come over me."

This amazing statement runs like a refrain through the printed confession of J. B. Watson, modern Bluebeard, made public in detail today for the first time.

The document covers sixty typewritten pages. In it Watson, known as C. N. Harvey and by many other aliases, admits the murder of four wives whom he names, and confesses that he may have made away with at least six others. He has married fifteen women, as near as he can remember.

Trying to explain the evil force that impelled him to murder, Watson declares that a mood of exaltation would come over him, and "somebody would tell him to go and kill."

Always this passion for murder was directed against the women he had inveigled into matrimony.

While in these ecstacies he states, he had "the strength of three men." He felt that he was doing right, and after the deeds were accomplished he would relapse into calm.

It developed today that Watson confessed in this State because he believed capital punishment existed in

TROLLEY CRASH INJURES THREE

Commuters in Panic as Cars Come Together in Brookline

Two men and a woman were injured and several hundred commuters thrown into a panic in a trolley crash at Beacon and Harvard streets, Brookline.

A Dudley street car enroute to Allston collided with the rear car of a two-car subway train to Beacon street. Glass was shattered in the subway train and a rush for the doors begun. The Allston car was thrown back by the impact with a shattered vestibule.

Motorman Patrick Leary of the Allston car and Albert E. Williams of No. 213 Heath street, Roxbury, were taken to the Massachusetts General Hospital slightly injured. An unidentified woman passenger also reported injuries and was treated by physicians in a nearby residence.

JEWISH BAKERS' UNION ON STRIKE

STATE GETS CAMBRIDGE TUNNEL

Pays $7,868,000 to "L" and Immediately Leases Tube for $400,000 a Year

The State today took over the Cambridge tunnel.

State Treasurer Fred J. Burrell gave the Elevated a check for $7,868,000 and the Elevated turned over the deeds of sale.

The State at once leased the tunnel to the L.

For the privilege of operating the tunnel the Elevated agreed to pay the State one-half of 1 per cent. in excess of the interest charges each year and 4½ per cent. on the bonds which are retired annually. Under this arrangement, the State will own the tunnel free from debt in fifty-six years. The Elevated's annual contribution will be about $400,000.

The deed was decorated with $775 in revenue stamps, paid by the Elevated to the government for the sale of the real estate.

By this purchase today the public came into possession of all the tunnels and subways which comprise the metropolitan transportation system. All the subways, except the line to Cambridge, were built by the city of Boston.

The State paid the Elevated the actual cost of building the Cambridge tunnel ten years ago. Financial experts say it got a bargain. The estimated cost of reproducing the Cambridge tunnel is $15,000,000.

The $7,8688,000 received by the Elevated will be used to retire capital obligations and for the purchase of equipment, including cars and power houses.

State Treasurer Burreill, Attorney General Allen, Assistant Attorney-General Jay Benton, Chairman Henry C. Attwill of the Public Utilities Department General Counsel H. Ware Barnum of the Elevated, Assistant General Counsel Charles W. Mulcahy and Assistant Treasurer Irving Pratt represented the State's and the Elevated's interest at the sale today.

LAWRENCE LABORERS TO ASK $6 A DAY

Lawrence, May 1.—City laborers, dissatisfied with the $5 a day wage they are now receiving, will demand an increase of $1 per day at a meeting of the City Council next Monday.

They claim that police and firemen who recently received a pay boost of 50 cents a day get a full year, while they are compelled to lose time on account of weather conditions.

The Tenant's Spring Song

(May 1, 1920.)

By GEORGE C. MACKINNON

It used to be a joyous day,
When people gaily moved away
To new apartments (there were plenty).
Things aren't the same in 1920.

My landlord is a vicious gent;
Three times a week he boosts the rent.
I plead in vain; he never yields,
But speaks of tent-room in the fields.

I've often read in histories
That ancient humans dwelt in trees,
Alas! that in this modern time
Our wives and babies cannot climb!

'Tis moving day—the 1st of May.
I needs must move; I cannot pay.
Can't some one find me what I crave—
Just light housekeeping in a cave!

Edison Company of Brockton Cuts Price as Business Shows Big Gain

Brockton, May 1.—The Edison Company of Brockton today announced a reduction of 19 per cent. in the cost of current in the Brockton district. The reduction becomes effective at once. This brings the cost down now to the level of November, 1918.

The new rate will be for dwelling houses and all commercial places.

General Manager A. F. Nelson said that the decrease is due to the great increase of business, practically every new house on all new routes of the company having been wired.

The company furnishes electricity through its Brockton plant to the district comprising Whitman, North Easton, Stoughton, Holbrook, the three Bridgewaters, Halifax and Plympton, all of which will come under the new rate.

TWO MEN HURT BY AUTOS

School Street Auto Accidents Result of Congestion Near Parker House

Two men were injured and several railings and bars protecting windows were demolished when two automobiles ran up on the sidewalk on School street and crashed against the Parker House today in two different accidents.

The injured:

SAMUEL FREEDMAN, No. 419 Franklin avenue, Chelsea. Taken to the Relief Hospital.

JOHN G. CAGER, No. 9 Alfred street, Medford. Cared for by friends.

The accidents occurred as a result of congestion on School street, near Tremont street. A machine owned and driven by Max Brooks of Howard avenue, Roxbury, in which were Brooks' three children, ran into the wall of the Parker House, near Tremont street, then backed off again in zigzag fashion and sideswiped an auto truck, plunged forward again and pinned Freedman to the wall. Brooks stopped the car and then fainted.

A few minutes later a machine driven by Martin Morley of No. 293 Columbus avenue, ran onto the sidewalk to avoid a collision with another machine and struck the wall of the hotel near the Chapman place corner. Cager was pinned against the wall by this auto.

PUNCH IN JAW IS FATAL

John R. Murray, Knocked Out in Tenth Round, Fails to Recover

John R. Murray of No. 985 Parker street, Roxbury, died today at the Relief Hospital as the result of a knockout received in a boxing bout last night with Dave Powers of Malden, well-known welterweight, at the Commercial A. C., West End.

Murray failed to regain consciousness.

Powers, charged with manslaughter, was released when Judge Burke refused to issue a warrant either for him or the officers of the boxing club. Police officers assured Judge Burke that there was nothing illegal about the contest or the actions of either boxer.

The bout was a ten-round affair, in which Murray held his own until the tenth round.

Felled by a punch to the jaw from Powers' right, his head struck the floor before his body.

Murray was well known, first as an amateur boxer, and later as a professional of some skill, although still in the preliminary class.

Until the fatal blow, he had given a good account of himself in the bout.

PLAN JOHNSON FIGHT IN NORTH CAROLINA

Washington, May 1.—Plans for carrying on an intensive campaign in North Carolina in the interest of Senator Hiram Johnson were formed here at a conference between Johnson managers and Judge Iredell Meares of Wilmington, who will manage the campaign in the State. POLES THREATEN CITY OF KIEV

Less Than 50 Miles Away as Two Russian Divisions Are Cut Off

By International News Service.

London, May 1.—The Poles have advanced to within less than fifty miles of the important city of Kiev, in their drive into Russia, according to a Warsaw dispatch to the Times today. Cavalry forces were pressing ahead rapidly, it was stated.

Warsaw is wildly celebrating the success of the Poles, the dispatch stated.

On the north the Poles' main force has reached the junction of the Dneiper and Pripet rivers, while on the south the Poles and the Ukrainians have captured Lityn and Mohilev.

Two entire divisions of the Russians were surrounded and cut off in the north. Polish gunboats operating in conjunction with land forces routed a Bolshevist river fleet, two Bolshevist monitors being captured.

MAY DAY DISORDER BLOCKED

Communist Leaders, Their Plans Known to Authorities, Fail to Attempt Outbreak

An additional guard was stationed outside the door of the Executive Chambers in the State House today, following the arrest of a suspicious character in the room adjoining that of Governor Coolidge in the Adams House.

This action was taken despite the fact that Communist party leaders who had lanned May Day demonstrations in Boston and other cities had abandoned them because of the knowledge of their activities, obtained by Department of Justice agents.

A flurry of excitement was caused by the arrest in the West End of three men, suspected of beings "Reds." They were released after satisfying the police of Station 3 of thehir innocence.

RESERVES ON DUTY.

Due to the fact that the authorities were said to have secured a complete program of proposed "Red" demonstrations today, word was said to have been sent out that all activities be confined to meetings. Government agents were scattered throughout the State, wherever these meetings were scheduled to be held, and reserve forces were on hand at the local office of the Department of Justice.

Governor Coolidge arrived at the State House at his usual hour, and carried out his regular Saturday schedule. He was accompanied by his bodyguard, Edward F. Harrigan, and the extra guard, Charles A. Paine, was stationed outside the door by Superintendent of Public Bildings Kimball.

There were twenty-five watchmen on duty in the State House, with ten plain clothes men, circulating in and out of the building with orders to search any packages carried by strangers.

COURT OFFICERS ARMED.

Court officers were armed with pistols, issued at the Suffolk County Courthouse, in order that they might repulse any attempt to attack the building.

District Attorney Nathan A. Tufts of Middlesex County received many telephonic complaints to the effect that circulars bearing the words: "Hail to the Soviet," had been pushed under the doors of dwellings. A mysterious card bearing only the

DESIRE TO KILL WAS STRONG

Watson Unable to Resist 'Urge' to Marry and Slay, He Confesses

the State of Washington, and it was to escape that erroneous fear of death on the gallows that he bargained here for life imprisonment as the price of full confession.

Watson is a prisoner in his iron bed, hands manacled to prevent further attempts at suicide.

"I must be insane, he moans; "I must be insane."

Asked: "Didn't you know you could not hang in Washington when you offered the confession to the murder here?" Watson exclaimed mildly: "That's not so—not so."

But when assured that it was fell back, buried his face in his pillow and sobbed. He seemed to feel that, despite the recommendation of life imprisonment he is living under the shadow of death. His one hope appears to be insanity, and he harps constantly on that.

Watson began his plans for confession two days ago, when he was told that the body of one of the women he had killed had been found and identified. In his confession he gave the following list of those at whose death he had been present:

Miss Lee Deloney of San Francisco.

Bertha Goodnick of Seattle.

Alice M. Ludvigson of Spokane, Wash.

Betty Prior of Seattle.

Details of the crime were given in each case and the prisoner even drew a map of the locality where each woman met her death, that the authorities might find the bodies.

WATSON'S CONFESSION.

Watson's confession in part follows:

"Now I ask you again how many persons have you killed?" asked the district attorney.

"Well, it is hard for me to remember everything," answered Watson, "because something just tells me to go and marry them, and something told me not to. Yet I would go to it and then it seemed all at once an impulse came over me to make away with them or go some place way off and make away with them.

"Just fascination came over me to take them, give them money to get clothes and then go off somewhere and then something would say 'well, go to it, go to it,' and I would do it, and then I would go and keep things belonging to them, things I could not use, put them away, go look at them oft times, have pleasure looking on the things that accumulated.

Q.—How many people have you done away with? A.—There are several.

Q.—If you cannot tell me how many, just name them. A.—Mrs. Deloney.

Q.—That is the person who was killed here in Los Angeles County, is it not? A.—Yes.

Q.—And where is her body? A.—It is where I carried it all night and practically all day in the car over near the valley near El Centro.

Q.—This woman, Mrs. Deloney, had just gone through a ceremony with you? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—In San Francisco? A.—Yes, sir.

According to Harvey's confession, while he was camped at Signal Hill with Mrs. Deloney, the woman got hold of some letters written by him to Mrs. Williamson of Sacramento, Calif., whom he admitted having married in Washington State. Mrs. Deloney, he said, declared she would have him arrested for bigamy. Watson continued:

"I had the car open at the time and I grabbed a hammer and hit her on the head several times and killed her. I wrapped her up with part of her own clothes and drove during the night across the mountains."

Harvey said he married Elizabeth Pryor in Coeur de Alene, Idaho, and afterward did away with her.

Asked to describe the murder scene, he said: "We were driving from Portland and Seattle and we had auto trouble. We had some words over the trouble. A fellow came along and I got from him a monkey wrench or a screw-driver. She said it was a no-account car, and I was getting rather sore.

"At last I got so mad I used profanity. She grabbed her hatpin and said she would stick it through any man who would cuss her. Instantly I pushed her with all my might, and her head struck the corner of a bunk that was built about eighteen inches from the floor, in the deserted house where we were. It was clear when she struck the bunk, by the way she was breathing, that the fall was fatal. I struck her several times more until I was certain she was dead."

Mrs. Archie Roosevelt Held Up by Police

Friends of Mrs. Archie Roosevelt, formerly Miss Grace Lockwood of this city, were astonished today to learn that she was held up at the point of a pistol by a detective in Chicago, on suspicion of being a burglar.

Mrs. Roosevelt, who was married to the third son of the former President in April, 1917, established her identity and was permitted to continue her journey to New York, where she will sail for Panama to join her husband.

Two children and her maid were in the automobile with Mrs. Roosevelt, on the way to the La Salle street railroad station in Chicago. The car caught the eye of Detective Sergeant Donnelly, who became suspicious on seeing a fashionably-dressed young woman and a pile of baggage, and investigated.

RENT INCREASE IS BALKED

Roxbury Landlord Agrees to Let Tenants Remain at Present Rate

Philip Zisman of Fernboro street, a Roxbury landlord, was balked by the Mayor's committee on rent and housing from imposing a rent increase on some of his Howard avenue tenants.

He was complained of by tenants that he raised their rents for flats from $19 to $28. He was given a hearing on the complaints Wednesday and the matter was contained till Monday at 10 a. m.

Zisman called on the mayor's committee and announced that he would allow his tenants in the dwellings at Nos. 142, 144 and 146 Howard avenue, Roxbury, to remain and pay the rent they are now taxed.

Max I. Sabel pays Zisman $25 for a tenement at No. 142 Howard avenue. He says Zisman notiged him the rent on and after May 3 would be $28 a month. When Sabel hired the flat he only paid $12, then it was increased to $23, and later to $25, he claims.

Mrs . A. Miller pays $25 for a flat in the same house. Her story was the same as Sabel's.

Paulina Feldman lives at No. 140 Howard avenue and hired her flat in 1913 from Zisman for $19 a month and is today paying $25 a month. She was also told that her rent would be $28 on and after May 3, it is asserted.

ALL RUTLAND FIREMEN EXCEPT FOUR RESIGN

Rutland, Vt., Only four regular firemen are today protecting the city in case of fire. The other six regulars, including the chief and captain, have quit the department. Several weeks ago the officials requested a raise in salary and tendered their resignations if it was not forthcoming. When the mayor accepted the resignations four of the regulars accompanied their superiors in quitting.

words, "Strike Today," also was found by the Boston police.

Judge Albert F. Hayden of Roxbury, whose home was dinamited last year, and which was guarded today, walked to court as usual, and after conducting the regular Saturday business returned home unescorted.

POLICE WELL PREPARED.

With a police cordon thrown about the homes of State and city officials believed marked by radicals, the combined police power of State, government and city was prepared as never before to meet a possible "Red" uprising.

Bomb outrages were feared by the police more than any other menace at the hands of the radicals and because of the covert nature of this form of attack every available man in the Boston police department was on duty today. All leaves and days off were cancelled.

State guard troops and a detachment of the Motor Corps were distributed in armories at various points in the city prepared for a riot call. Officers at the Northeastern Department stated that regular army troops were available if needed to quell rioting. The presence of the guardsmen, according to the Adjutant General's department, was the result of a call for drill, but its coincidence with the expected radical developments gave a different and more menacing aspect to the assembly.

REFUSE "REDS" HALLS.

The proprietors of the New International Hall, Wenonah street, Roxbury, and the Dudley Street Opera House, the former building the scene of the rioting last year, refused to grant the use of the hall to the radicals for meetings. Attempts by the "Red" element to obtain halls in other sections of the city were met with rebuffs.

In Lowell, Lawrence and Lynn precautions were taken by the authorities to halt any "Red" meetings and prevent violence.

New York Police Prepare for Worst

By International News Service.

New York, May 1.—Every member of the New York police force either was on duty or in reserve today, and scores of private detectives and watchmen were alert to guard against any posible outbreak of May Day rioting by "Reds." Extraordinary precautions against violence were taken.

By order of Police Commissioner Enright, no men of the police department were to be "off duty" until 8 o'clock Monday morning. Extra patrolmen were assigned to guard the public library, the postoffice, the railway terminals and other public buildings. The homes and offices of noted men were closely guarded by private detectives. The postoffice authorities maintained vigilant watch for suspicious packages.

Under supervision of William J. Flynn, head of the United States secret service, a force of special agents kept in close touch with headquarters of "Red" propaganda. Major-General John F. O'Ryan ordered 2,000 National Guardsmen to be ready for mobilization on two hours' notice.

All outdoor meetings or parades of extremists planned for today were forbidden.

Several indoor meetings were held and arrangements were made for the policing of these gatherings. The phase of the situation which was given the closest attention was the possibility of disorder arising from so-called "rent strikes" by thousands of tenants in protest against increased rents. Officials declared many landlords had received threats of violence.

Price of Milk Goes Down in Boston

The price of milk in Boston was reduced from 17 to 16½ cents by H. P. Hood & Sons today. The reduction will continue in force throughout May and June. It is the usual Spring decrease agreed upon by producers and handlers some years ago.

Dr. N. C. Davis of the Hood company, in announcing the reduction, denied statements to the effect that dairymen were selling stock and milk handlers were encouraging them to do so. He said that every effort was being made to encourage production.

Keep Careful Guard on the White House

By International News Service.

Washington, May 1.—Secret Service men kept a careful guard on the White House today. Attorney-General Palmer also had his body guard, and the Capitol police were prepared to nip in the bud any attempts at violence in or about the halls of Congress. Local police also had instructions to watch carefully for any disturbers.

Chicago Police Jail Many As Agitators

London, May 1.—Serious clashes between workers and the police have taken place at Helsingfors, according to a Central News dispatch today. A general strike has been proclaimed. There were many casualties.

Half of Europe was not working today. According to advices reaching London from Paris, Rome, Berlin and other places on the Continent, labor made May Day a general holiday.

In Great Britain alone 7,000,000 workers were idle. Train service throughout the British Isles was normal, however. Reports from Rome said that busines was at a standstill, but train service was being maintained.

Berlin was completely tied up. Small retail stores were the only ones to open. Several meetings of workers were held throughout the city. A parade and demonstration was planned at Hamburg.

May Day failed to bring any serious trouble in Paris. Auto buses and tramways were functioning as usual.

Two policemen rode on each bus and car. On the subway stops were made at only the principal stations. No taxicabs or carriages were to be seen. Express trains carrying passengers for the channel ports departed as usual.

Despite the edict to keep off the streets, crowds thronged the boulevards. A few cavalry patrols, with full war equipment, were to be seen. Hundreds of small bars and restaurants opened after it appeared that there would be no trouble.

"ELK" PROHIBITION AGENT QUITS FORCE

Fred R. Lawrence, Federal prohibition agent, who, from testimony before United States Commissioner Hayes Thursday, procured liquor from Lawrence J. Nugent, who operates a taxi stand at a Commonwealth avenue hotel, by using his Elks' card —Nugent being an Elk—and thereafter arrested Nugent, has resigned from the government service.

Nugent was quickly discharged by the court at the conclusion of the case.

TWO PUBLIC ART LECTURES AT MUSEUM

Charles Hopkinson will conclude his series of lectures on the technique of painting in the lecture hall of the Museum of Fine Arts tomorrow afternoon at three o'clock.

At four o'clock Bronislas A. Jesierski will speak in Polish on "The Art of Poland in the Nineteenth Century" in Classroom A.

PRIVATE OPERATORS TO REFIT LINERS

Washington, May 1.—The action of the House appropriation committee in turning down the Shipping Board's request for $44,000,000 for reconditioning the former German ships will result in the vessels being turned over to private operators for refitting and operation.

DEFER BONUS BILL ACTION

Republicans Abandon Plan to Pass Measure Monday After Stormy Session

Washington, May 1.—Consideration of the proposed soldier bonus bill in the House, which was scheduled for next Monday, will be indefinitely postponed, it was decided by Republican members in caucus here.

Abandonment of the plan to pass the measure Monday was determined upon after the caucus had adopted a motion to adjourn subject to the call of the chair.

WANTS TAXES ELIMINATED.

The motion came early this morning, after a stormy four-hour session, chiefly over the sales tax provisions of the bill as reported out by the Ways and Means Committee.

The motion to adjourn was put through after Representative Royal Johnson had moved that the sales tax features of the bill be eliminated and that the measure be referred back to the committee, with instructions to provide for some other method of raising revenue for the bonuses.

FIVE BONUS PLANS.

As forecasted by Universal Service, the bill provides for five optional plans of extending aid to the World War veterans, who will be permitted to accept the plan which more strongly appeals to them.

The five plans are:

Cash bonus of $1.25 a day for each day of service after the first sixty days.

Land settlement aid at $1.25 a day.

Adjusted service certificate, or paid-up insurance, at $1.75 a day.

Vocational training aid, $1.75 a day.

Farm or home aid, $1.75 a day.

It is estimated that $1,600,000,000 will cover the entire cost of the legislation, and "Victory taxes" are provided to raise this revenue. These taxes apply to final retail sales, higher incomes, stock and produce exchange transactions, real estate transfers and tobacco products.

PATRIOTIC EXERCISES FOR WORCESTER WORKERS

Worcester, May 1.—Patriotic exercises in the various shops featured Worcester's May Day celebration. A number of local plants closed at 10:30 this morning so that employes could attend a patriotic mass meeting on the City Hall plaza. Other shops held exercises of their own.

At the mass meeting in front of the City Hall Mayor Peter F. Sullivan made a patriotic address. Thousands of citizens were massed about City Hall. His Honor spoke on "Bullets and Ballots," and stated that bullets could never change America's government while ballots could change it at any time.

700 Yanks Listed As Dead May Be Living

Paris, May 1.—Seven hundred soldiers, most of them Americans, whose names have been carried on the casualty lists as dead were living as prisoners in Germany last August and probably still are, according to Francois Fiodano, a French farmer who has arrived in Lille after escaping from a German prison camp.

He fled by way of Russia, the Baltic and England, and asserts he personally saw many of the Allied and American soldiers who have been officially declared dead.

WANTS LIBERTY BONDS ACCEPTED FOR TAXES

Washington, May 1.—Acceptance at par of Liberty bonds by the government in payment of income and excess profits taxes is authorized in a bill introduced in the House by Representative Ackerman of New Jersey.

EXPERT SAW FINGER MARKS ON MRS. OTTERSON'S THROAT

ACCUSED FEARED QUIZZING

Concord Policeman Testifies Mrs. Otterson Balked at Facing Sheriff Wooster

Concord, N. H., May 1.—J. Edward Silva, a Concord police officer and known as one of the best finger print experts in New Hampshire, who was at the Otterson house at [illegible] of the night of the shooting of Maurice F. Otterson, was cross-examined today by Robert C. Murchie, counsel for Mrs. Marion L. Otterson, on trial here charged with slaying the young war veteran.

He testified that he talked with the accused woman at great length during the evening and that he noticed that she drew the thumb and forefinger of her right hand across her throat seventeen times during the conversation.

NOTICED BLINDS DRAWN.

This was before he noticed, he said, the redness about her throat, which she afterward pointed out was done by the bandit who held her down while his companion shot her brother-in-law.

He said that the former nurse stayed in the kitchen with him and other officers while Sheriff Wooster and Medical Examiner Sanders were continuing their investigation in another room.

"It was chilly in the kitchen," he continued, "and I said to her, 'Why don't you go into the front part of the house with the older people—it is warmer there.' She answered: 'I don't want to go there. They will ask me too many questions.'"

Silva also stated that during the evening he called to the attention of Mrs. John I. Otterson, mother of the murdered youth, the fact that the blinds in the sitting room, where the youth's body was lying, were drawn.

"I asked her of that was usual," he testified, "and she said 'No.'" Then, according to his story, the accused woman instantly spoke up saying, "Don't you remember that Maurice always pulls down the curtains so that I won't be afraid?"

TELLS OF FINDING RING.

Mrs. Otterson, the defendant, then asked him who he was. "I told her I was a Concord police officer and she said, 'Well, if that is so, don't talk to me again.'"

Under cross-examination Sheriff George A. Wooster told of finding a diamond ring, alleged to have been hidden by Mrs. Otterson, in a bureau drawer, several days after the crime. This ring, the State claims, Mrs. Otterson reported as having been taken by the bandits.

"Who found the ring?" he was asked.

"County Solicitor Rainie."

"Who was with you besides Mr. Rainie?"

"James R. Wood, a Boston detective."

"What was its exact location?"

"It was lying under a sheet of paper, which had been used as a lining for a drawer in the left hand side of a chiffonier in Mrs. Otterson's bedroom."

"What else was in the drawer?"

"A lot of old papers, some feathers and ribbon which had evidently been used as hat trimmings."

"Did you tell Mr. or Mrs. John I. Otterson of your discovery?"

"I did not."

DESCRIBES DEATH MARKS.

It was expected that Attorney Murchie would cross-examine at length Dr. George B. Magrath of Boston, who testified under direct examination as to an autopsy he performed on the body of the murdered boy. He satisfied himself, however, with only two questions.

"Maurice Otterson met his death from a gunshot wound?" he asked the Boston pathologist.

"Yes, sir," answered Dr. Magrath.

"Will you say that the marks on his throat were caused before death?"

"Yes." This ended the examination.

The State's case, in all probability, will be completed some time Monday. Victor I. Moore, deputy marshal of Concord, will follow Patrolman Silva on the stand and then it is expected that Miss Joan Donnelly, clerk in a Boston jewelry store, will be called to identify the hidden diamond ring as the one bought by Howard Otterson to give his wife as an engagement present in 1914.

WEYMOUTH VOTES TO RESTORE STREET CARS

Weymouth voted for a return of street car service at a special town meeting, and at the same time approved the Sunday Sports law. Street car service will be resumed June 1, but until that time Weymouth will be without jitney bus service because of the heavy bond required from jitney owners beginning today. One-man cars will feature the resumption of street railway service, without which the town has been since February 4. The vote to restore service was 587 to 302.

ATLANTIC FLEET ENDS CRUISE

Three Destroyer Squadrons Steam Into New York Ahead of Schedule

New York, May 1.—Several hours ahead of schedule, destroyer squadrons Nos. 1, 2 and 3, the advance guard of the Atlantic fleet, steamed into New York harbor today. Before night it was expected fifty ships of the fleet, home from Winter manoevres in tropical waters, would be anchored in the Hudson.

Headed by the Rochester, flagship of the destroyer squadrons under Rear Admiral Plunkett, three squadrons entered the North river at 7 o'clock.

Wireless reports from the Pennsylvania, flagship of the fleet, declared that the weather was unfavorable and that the fog and rain probably would delay the arrival of the larger ships.

Aboard the Pennsylvania as guests of Rear Admiral Wilson, commander, are Secretary of the Navy Daniels and Admiral Coontz, chief of naval operations.

The fifteen thousand sailors aboard the ships set foot on American soil for the first time in many months on the anniversary of Admiral Dewey's victory over the Spanish fleet in Manila Bay. The fleet will remain here until May 16 and elaborate plans for the entertainment of the sailors have been made by local organizations.

Newport, R. I., May 1.—Mayor Mahoney presented a resolution inviting Secretary of the Navy Daniels to send the ships of the Atlantic fleet to Newport this Summer, and it was unanimously adopted by the Board of Federation.

FINE GIRL AND 3 MEN SHE ACCUSED

After feigning unconsciousness and telling a story of being attacked by three men, Leroy Roberts, Charles Furness and Samuel Skolnick, Beatrice V. Newell, an eighteen-year-old full-blooded Indian girl, was sentenced in the Lynn Court to the Sherborn Reformatory. The police raided her home on Tremont street, Lynn. The men were captured while attempting to depart by way of the fire escape. The girl pleaded guilty to a statutory offence. The men were fined $20 each on the same charge.

McMAHON SWORN IN AS SUPERINTENDENT

John A. McMahon of No. 73 Neponset avenue, Dorchester, was sworn in as superintendent of the Upham's Corner postoffice by Postmaster Roland M. Baker. The ceremony took place at the Upham's Corner postoffice, which was banked with flowers sent by friends of Superintendent McMahon in both the main and sub-stations. He was presented with a gold watch, chain and knife. The new superintendent is said to be the youngest in the Boston postal district.

LEXINGTON POLICE CHIEF PENSIONED

Lexington, May 1.—Forty-four years ago today Chief Charles H. Franks of the Lexington Police Department became a member of the Boston police force, marking his entrance in the work he has followed for nearly half a century. The chief is now seventy-three years old, and the selectmen have granted his request to be retired on a pension June 1.

20 P. C. RAISE IN PULLMAN RATES IN EFFECT TODAY

Washington, D. C., May 1.—An increase of 20 per cent. in Pullman rates went into effect today affecting lines in all parts of the country where this service is operative. The Interstate Commerce Commission refused to suspend the increase following a hearing against the advanced rate.

SEARCH RIVER FOR BODY OF CANOEIST

Bedford, N. H., May 1.—Fresh River is being searched for the body of George Woodbury, seventeen years old, son of former State Senator Gordon Woodbury of New York, who has been missing since he started on a canoe trip. Woodbury's canoe and coat were found in the river.

Choristers of the Second Church, Back Bay, singing from a window balcony.

Outdoor May Day observances scheduled for the early part of the day in Boston and vicinity were postponed or held indoors, on account of the rain which ushered in "the merry month."

Choristers of the Second Church, Back Bay, were undaunted, however, and gave their program of songs, "welcoming the May," although they sang from a balcony instead of from the roof, as planned.

The church choir was assisted by volunteers, under the direction of Choirmaster Stone. A fanfare of trumpets opened the program. This was followed by a group of songs, mostly secular and later members of the Unitarian Laymen's League served breakfast.

Wellesley girls who had planned an elaborate all-day program on the campus were obliged to defer the "hoop-rolling" and other al fresco sports until Monday.

QUINN MAY GO ON COMMITTEE

Cambridge Mayor Is Talked of as Coughlin's Successor on Democratic Body

Mayor Edward W. Quinn of Cambridge is mentioned as likely to succeed Dr. John W. Coughlin of Fall River as the Massachusetts member of the Democratic National Committee. Daniel F. Doherty of Westfield and Daniel H. Coakley of Boston have also been mentioned.

Whether Dr. Coughlin will be a candidate to succeed himself is not stated. He is, however, friendly with the administration, Secretary Tumulty being one of his closest friends, and it is generally expected that he would not be re-elected by a delegation that was victorious on an anti-administration issue.

Dr. Coughlin's successor will be elected by the Massachusetts delegation to the San Francisco convention. Messrs. Doherty, Coakley and Quinn are members of the delegation.

TENOR'S WIFE WINS AWARD OF $50,000

New York, May 1.—A verdict of $50,000 was awarded by a jury in the Supreme Court against Mrs. Jessie McGrath Ullrey, of Cleveland.

The amount was assessed as damages for alienating the affections of Enrico Aresoni, noted tenor, at one time member of the Boston Opera Company.

Mrs. Ullrey was sued by Mrs. Lillian Aresoni, who alleged that after her husband left her she was compelled to obtain employment as clerk.

PROVIDENCE SCHOOLS RENEW GERMAN COURSES

Providence, May 1.—All German courses will be re-established in the four Providence high schools with the opening of the school season next Fall, as the result of action taken by the local school board. The German courses were abolished shortly after the United States entered the World War.

CARRANZA READY TO QUIT CAPITAL

Railroad From Mexico City to Vera Cruz Reported Clear for Departure

Washington, May 1.—President Carranza is prepared to flee from Mexico City, according to a statement made here today, from the agency of the Sonora revolution, based upon reports reaching the agency.

It was pointed out that President Carranza has placed his son-in-law, General Candido Aguilar, in command of the Federal forces of Pueblo and Vera Cruz, through which territory runs the railroad leading to Vera Cruz.

Representatives of the Sonora agency declared this step was taken because Carranza wanted an officer in command whom he could trust to keep a safe avenue of departure open from Mexico City.

General Lucio Blaco has been placed in command of the northern command of Federal forces at Tampico.

San Antonio, Tex., May 1.—A rebel force, headed by General Almazan, has reached a point twenty-four miles from aMtamoros, according to a dispatch from Brownsville, Tex., today. "Matamoros," the dispatch adds, "is overwhelmingly for General Obregon, and is expected to capitulate without a fight."

FINED FOR BRUSH FIRES IN LEXINGTON

Lexington, May 1.—The Lexington police are endeavoring to put a stop to the starting of brush fires in this town, where they have been numerous this Spring, and two residents were summoned into the District Court at Concord charged with setting fires outdoors without a permit. Ellis Lee of Ward street, North Lexington, was found guilty and fined $10, and H. W. Litchfield of No. 248 Massachusetts avenue, East Lexington, was discharged.

TEN SOMERVILLE POLICE SHIFTED

Days Off Discontinued and Men Ordered Not to Leave City for Present

Ten Somerville patrolmen were transferred today in a shakeup ordered by Chief of Police Charles A. Kendall. In the future, one of the six sergeants will perform clerical duty at headquarters in the place of Patrolman Frank C. Hopkins, who has performed that work for six years and who today began duty at the Somerville public library. Each sergeant will take his turn for a month at the job. Sergeant Ernest Howard started his tour of duty today.

Patrolman Francis A. Perkins, the oldest patrolman doing street work in the department, who has for thirty years covered the day route in Winter Hill, has been assigned to city hall. Officers Hopkins and Perkins replaced Patrolmen Jotham Chisholm and Charles W. Stevens, who were performing that duty and were recently retired on a pension.

The other changes were Patrolman Hudson M. Howe from Prospect Hill to the day route in Winter Hill; Patrolman Daniel M. O'Connell, from night relief work to the Prospect Hill day route; Patrolman George R. Allen, from a night route to day relief duty; Patrolman George B. McDonald, from day relief duty to night; Patrolman Chester Warner, from the night route at Prospect Hill to day relief duty; Patrolman Edward F. Culliton, from night duty in Brickbottom to night duty at Prospect Hill; Patrolman Charles F. Lacey, from day relief duty to night duty at Brickbottom.

Days off for members of the department have been discontinued for the present and the officers are ordered not to leave the city.

WACHUSETT ROAD TO BE REBUILT

Clinton, April 30.—The State Highway Commission proposes taking over the four and a half miles of highway between this town and West Boylston, bordering the Wachusett reservoir. It plans the expending of about $140,000 of State money and $17,500 by the town of Clinton and a like sum by Worcester County in the rebuilding of the highway, which is an important link in the through automobile route between Worcester and Lowell.

NOTED AMERICANS ROBBED IN PARIS

Paris, May 1.—Scores of well-known American, British and French stars and many other notables have been robbed of costly jewels at an all-night dancing palace recently, according to reports made to the police. An American is declared to have committed the thefts while dancing and dining with the guests. Among the robber's victims are Miss Kay Laurell, American actress, who lost a diamond pin; Princess Helene Murat, Count Arlenski, Prince Muza and Baron Delespee.

BARBERS ADVANCE PRICE IN LEXINGTON

Lexington, May 1.—Beginning today, the price of haircuts and shaves advanced in all barber shops in Lexington. Haircuts have gone to half a dollar from 35 cents, and shaves have been advanced a nickel, now costing 20 cents. Children under twelve years may still get a haircut for 35 cents, except on Saturdays, when they will be 50 cents.

$1,500,000 IS ALREADY GIVEN FOR BROWN DRIVE

The $3,000,000 drive for Brown University professors will start Monday in Greater Boston and will last one week. The opening shot will be fired at a banquet at the City Club Monday night, when Dr. Hermon C. Bumpus, associate chairman of the campaign, will explain the purposes of the drive. Captain C. R. Stark, U. S. A., is one of the Boston rooters for the fund. Already $1,500,000 has been subscribed.

WAR CROSS FOR MOTHER OF BROOKLINE HERO

Mrs. Gertrude Goettler, No. 51 Williams street, Brookline, was decorated with distinguished service cross today at army headquarters, for her son, Second Lieutenant Harold Ernest Goettler, pilot of the 50th Aero Squadron, who was killed near Binarville, France, October 6, 1918. Major-General C. R. Edwards pinned the cross upon Mrs. Goettler and made an address in which he congratulated the mother upon having such a heroic son.

EKLUND'S TORN HAT FOUND

Blood-Stained Fedora Containing Hairs from Missing Man's Head Under Auto Seat

A bloody brown fedora hat, with strands of human hair still clinging to its rent crown, has been found beneath the front seat of the sedan machine driven from Providence by Oliver Eklund, missing and supposed slain chauffeur.

The hat, discovered by Ernest and Irving Eklund, brothers of the missing man, was identified by them as belonging to their brother Oliver and the strands of hair were recognized as probably those torn from the unfortunate youth's head when dealt a murderous blow from behind with a blunt instrument, which ripped a hole in the hat's crown an inch and a half long.

Though the auto has been kept in the Field's Corner police station garage since last Monday, the day following the night of Eklund's disappearance and the abandonment of the machine at Dorchester Mills by his suspected slayers, the police either failed to overhaul the car for clews or the hat escaped their notice.

CONFIRMS POLICE THEORY.

The finding of the torn hat confirms the belief that Eklund was attacked at Wade's Corner, Taunton, by two men who hired him to take them from Providence and bears out the theory of the police that the youth sitting in the driver's seat was attacked by his fares from behind, they occupying the rear seats.

The brothers of the missing man visited the police station to make certain that the machine was the one driven by Oliver.

Searchers for the chauffeur's body, though they have thoroughly combed the Westville section of Taunton, where a staggering man, who was thought drunk, but is now believed to have been Eklund, was last seen, failed to find any further clews of importance.

Taunton police today were investigating the story of the small children, of Joseph Andrietti, No. 1029 Cohannett street, regarding a blood-stained board found in a sawdust pile near their home some days ago. The board has since been destroyed by workmen, and the clew is expected to prove of little value.

There were reports today that the "murder car" had been sen going toward the Westboro mills, Sunday night, and this story also was being investigated. All previous reports have placed the car on the other side of the turnpike, in the vicinity of Rockywood and Fisher streets.

Three Mile River was drained agoin today in an effort to find the body of the missing chauffuer.

The Rocky Wood road section, where Eklund's keys were picked up and where he is believed to have been thrown from the machine by his attackers, was searched again today, hundreds of Taunton mill hands assisting.

Both sides of the road and the land in the immediate vicinity of Fisher street, where a bloody board belonging to the weighing scales of the stone quarry was found, were carefully scrutinized.

That Eklund was murdered is not doubted by the police and they believe his body when found will be discovered in some secluded wood spot or in the triangular swamp on the outskirts of Taunton.

The police today showed photos of a notorious Fall River character to Taunton witnesses, who saw and talked with the two men ocupying the Eklund machine in Taunton. This suspect is missing from Fall River, and is believed to have left the latter city and gone to Providence to escape the police. State officers think he may have been joined by a pal and solicited Eklund to drive them in the direction of Boston in order to avoid the net spread for his capture.

Boy Scouts in scouring the woods near Taunton discovered an illicit still, which was confiscated by Chief of Police Crowley.

ROXBURY WOMAN HURT IN CRASH ON BRIDGE

Mrs. Mollie Merrick, aged 46, of No. 93 Devon street, Roxbury, was taken to the Cambridge Hospital suffering from injuries received when the automobile in which she was riding collided with a Cambridge-Dudley street car on the Boston side of the Cambridge bridge.

The automobile, owned by Meyer Rittenberg of No. 140 Devon street, Roxbury, and driven by Curley Nelson, became wedged between the trolley car and an auto truck. Elevated officials stated that the trolley car was stalled at the time of the accident.

JOHN P. ARCHDEACON BURIED IN ROXBURY

The funeral of John P. Archdeacon, a widely-known builder, was held today from St. Ann's Church, Neponset, one of the edifices he erected. There was a solemn high mass. Burial was in St. Joseph's Cemetery. Mr. Archdeacon was a member of the firm of Archdeacon & Sullivan, and invented many construction devices now in general use. He was born in Queenstown, Ireland, and came here 74 years ago.

ROCHESTER STRIKE HALTS CAR SERVICE

Rochester, N. Y., May 1.—Rochester's entire street railway system is today tied up by a strike of motormen and conductors. Thousands of workers were forced to walk to their places of employment. Two interurban lines, the Rochester and Syracuse and the Rochester, Lockport and Buffalo, are operating cars.

Town Clerk 21 Years

George H. Carter, for twenty-one year town clerk of Winchester and holder of many other town offices of trust, is dead at his home, No. 275 Main street, Winchester, at the age of sixty-nine years.

Marries 65 Couples Within Two Hours

Paris, May 1.—The world's record for tying the marital knot has been broken by Mayor Maistras of the seventeenth Paris ward.

In two hours he married sixty-five couples, performing the ceremony in each case in about a minute and a half.

MARY PICKFORD HALED TO COURT

Summoned to Nevada With Her Former Husband in Divorce Annulment Suit

Los Angeles, Cal., May 1.—Mary Pickford will have to appear in Minden, Nev., May 17, to answer to a suit instituted by that State to annul her divorce from Owen Moore. This order was contained in a summons delivered by mail to the film actress here. The authorities ordered summonses served both by mail and by publication to both Miss Pickford, now Mrs. Douglas Fairbanks, and her ex-husband.

In connection with the annulment action, Owen Moore may be prosecuted on a charge of perjury, in that he testified that he did not go to Nevada to permit his wife's divorce summons to be served on him.

It is said that the case of a man named Floyd W. Weaver, under arrest here, is similar. He is under indictment in Nevada for swearing that he intended to make that State his residence, and then leaving after his divorce had been granted.

No criminal action is expected in the case of Miss Pickford, but if the divorce decree is set aside the actress will be in a legal predicament, due to her immediate remarriage.

THREE MEN HELD IN LIQUOR CASES

Charged with receiving bottles of cognac which had been unlawfully imported into this country on the steamship Canopic, which is at Commonwealth pier, three men were arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Hayes on this Federal charge and were subsequently held in $500 personal bail to await the action of the grand jury.

The men were John Durand of Summer street, Quincy; John H. O'Neil of North Mead street, Charlestown, and Martin Conley of West Second street, South Boston.

Head of Arms Firm Dead

Springfield, May 1.—Joseph H. Wesson, head of the Smith & Wesson Company, small arms makers, is dead here, aged 60.

INTERCHURCH DRIVE GAINS

Nation's Total Is Now $101,213,270; Northern Baptists' Gain Is Feature

Widespread efforts by church teams canvassing the length and breadth of the United States, have begun to show unprecedented results in the great united religious campaign for $336,777,000 which thirty denominations are pushing through the Interchurch World Movement. With the campaign drawing to a close the total thus far raised in the nation, announced in a message to Boston Interchurch headquarters today, is $101,213,270.

Most noteworthy in this gain of $22,079,270 over the previous total announcement for the nation—$78,134,000—is the forward sweep of the Northern Baptists, who are striving for the biggest single goal, $100,000,000. They have now obtained $35,935,000, a day's gain of $5,548,000.

The total for the Massachusetts Baptists passed the three-million during the day, with twenty churches reporting that they had gone over the top. Most of these twenty have from $5,000 to $10,000 over their quotas.

Several personal gifts gave new power to the drive in the friendly citizens' division of the campaign. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., who has already given substantially to the Northern Baptist Convention's budget of $100,000,000, as well as once before to the friendly citizens' division, gave an additional sum of $375,000 to the latter.

It was announced in New York that the friendly citizens' division had received in that city a gift of $100,000 from Arthur Curtis James, and one of $10,000 from Frederick W. Vanderbilt. A further announcement stated that Charles Hayden, of Hayden, Stone & Co., had given $5,000 to the friendly citizens' division.

PETER O'NEIL BRANCH TO CELEBRATE DRIVE

The Peter O'Neil branch, F. O. I. F. of Chelsea will celebrate the success of the Irish bond campaign tomorrow in St. Rose's Hall. The speakers will be Charles S. O'Connor, member of the Boston School Board, and Thomas R. Callahan.

PRINCETON FAVORITE OVER HARVARD AND PENN IN CREW RACE

REGATTA TODAY ON CHARLES

Terry Brothers on Crimson and Tiger Boats Have Own Private Battle

The first of the three big college regattas of the year is held late this afternoon on the Charles River, with Harvard, Pennsylvania and Princeton competing. The three crews appear evenly matched, with Princeton the dark horse and probable winner.

Pennsylvania and Harvard are on a par with the former more likely to be located in last place. Dual races between Harvard and Princeton second crews are apt to both be decided in favor of the crimson.

The Tigers present a well balanced boat, although it is the lightest of the three crews. The average weight is 171 pounds. The red and blue blades are propelled by 175 pounds of brawn, while Harvard's eight averages 180 pounds.

J. D. C. Goide, a British oarsman of some repute will start the crews, the varsity race being the last event on the three race program. The opening tilt between the freshmen, the water permitting, will get under way at 5 o'clock.

Arrangements have been made to wig-wag the result to the waiting crowds, and on Harvard Bridge the spectators will be furnished with data regarding the progress of the races.

Coach Guy Nickalls and Captain Peters of Yale are to be Harvard's guests. The crimson and red and blue oarsmen will row in Davy boats, while all three Princeton shells were made by Al Ward, recently retired.

There is a brother act on between the Harvard and Princeton varsities. Arthur Terry rows two for the Tigers and declares his crew is going to lick brother Lawrence's despite the fact that a Terry is rowing six in the crimson shell.

The statistics of the three varsity crews follow:

WILDE VS. DYSON AT LAWRENCE

New England Bantam Champion Depends on Knockout to Bring Victory

By JACK CONWAY.

Jimmy Wilde against Bobby Dyson!

This international ring battle caused 15,000 boxing fans to storm the open-air arena of the Atlas A. A. at Lawrence today. It was the most important ring contest arranged for New England fans in several years.

Wilde is the world's flyweight champion. The little Welshman, barely scaling 110 pounds, has beaten most of the world's leading boxers who weighed up to 120 pounds. He is the fighting marvel of the present generation.

Dyson is the bantamweight champion of New England. He is only nineteen years of age and one of the finest ring prospects in the country. He boxes with his right hand extended and hits as hard as a lightweight.

Dyson's Hope Lies in Knockout

Harry Ertle of New Jersey was to referee. The fact that no decision was to be rendered did not take away any interest from the match. It was admitted on all sides that if the tussle went the limit Wilde would have a big margin of points in his favor. A knockout was Dyson's hope.

There were 2,000 fans on hand from New Bedford. They were the friends and neighbors of Dyson. They, with other thousands, rooted for the little French boy to come through with a victory.

Dyson has been the sensation of the boxing game in New England. He has defeated virtually every bantamweight in the country with the exception of a few of the headliners who have refused to meet him.

Nightingale Beats British Flier

By CHARLES PARKER

Philadelphia, May 1.—They sort of laughed at Gordon T. Nightingale when he stepped off the train at the Broad Street Station. He was wearing a funny looking hat—possibly the most attractive sky piece the general store at Durham, N. H., had to offer him—and he shuffled along the strange Philadelphia streets in a manner peculiar to those who have lived their lives on New England farms, and, under his arm, he carried a book dealing with hog raising or some allied subject.

But they are sort of salaaming to Nightingale, for he won the feature event of the opening day's program of the annual Penn Relay Carnival, and in winning that event, the international intercollegiate three-mile run, he defeated P. A. Montague, Oxford University, the acknowledged long-distance champion of Great Britain, and the man upon whom that country was counting to win the 5,000-metre run in the approaching Olympic games.

New England Day at Franklin Field

It was somewhat of a New England day at Franklin Field. In addition to Nightingale's victory and McMahon's strong showing in the feature event, Dandrow of Tech finished first and Weld, of Dartmouth, second in the 56-pound weight event; Exeter finished first and Huntington School second in the interscholastic medley relay; Yale took second prize in the intercollegiate distance medley relay; Tech scored fourth in the intercollegiate sprint relay, and Gourdin of Harvard finished third in the running hop, step and jump, altogether an excellent showing considering the number of athletes representing the New England States.

The world's record, any number of unusually fine performances, and thrill after thrill went to make the opening day the very greatest in the twenty-six-year history of Penn Relay Carnivals. The record was the work of J. M. Watt of Cornell, who ran the 440-yard hurdles in 54 1-5 seconds. The outstanding of the excellent performances came in a 4 minutes, 27 seconds mile by Larry Shield of Penn State, in the distance medley; a 1 minute, 54 4-5 seconds half mile by Earl Eby of Pennsylvania, in the sprint medley, and a 59 3-5 quarter mile by Maxam, another Pennsylvanian, in the latter event. All of which marks were made on a heavy track with a steady downpour of rain pelting the athletes.

Dark Horse Wins Penthalon

The Pentathlon championship, another of the feature events of the first day, went to Eddie Bradley of Kansas, an unheralded all-round performer, who scored second places in the broad jump, javelin throw and 200-metre dash, third place in the discus throw and fourth place in the 1,500 metre run, for a total of 13.

Herlihy of Lynn Classical High set the pace in the first relay of the interscholastic medley championship, but Waterman of Exeter overcame the advantage Herlihy had handed to Lynn's second runner, and from that point on Chapman and Hitzoat continued to keep Exeter's colors well in the front and the latter crossed the line 20 yards ahead of Forbes of Huntington School.

440-YARD HURDLES—Won by J. M. Watt, Cornell; second, Caugalin, University of the South; third, H. Gish, Nebraska. Time—54 1-5s. (New world's record.)

INTERNATIONAL INTERCOLLEGIATE 3-MILE RUN—Won by Gordon T. Nightingale of New Hampshire State; second, P. A. Montague, Oxford-Cambridge; third, W. K. McMahon, M. I. T. Time—14m 56s.

56-POUND WEIGHT—Won by C. G. Dandrow, M. I. T.; second, Weld, Dartmouth; third, Skidmore, University of the South. Distance, 29 feet ¾ inches.

RUNNING HOP, STEP AND JUMP—Won by S. Landers, Penn; second, Overbee, Illinois; third, Gourdin, Harvard; fourth, Ellis, Syracuse. Distance, 43 feet 8½ inches.

DISTANCE MEDLEY RELAY—Won by Penn State (Taylor, Orr, Morrill, L. Shields); second, Yale (Heffelfinger, O'Brien, Hills, Seimans); third, Syracuse; fourth, Georgetown. Time—10m 37 1-5s.

SPRING MEDLEY RELAY—Won by Penn (Davis, Landers, Maxam, Eby); second, Lafayette (LeConey, Williams, Morgan, Crawford); third, Minnesota; fourth, M. I. T. Time—3m 29s.

INTERSCHOLASTIC MEDLEY RELAY—Won by Exeter (Swede, Waterman, Chapman, Hitzoat); second, Huntington (Jenkins, Farley, Robertson, Forbes); third, Barringer H. S., N. J.; fourth, Cedar Rapids H. S., Iowa. Time—4m 44s.

PENTATHLON—Won by E. Bradley, Kansas, 13; second, W. Bartels, Penn, 15; third, Hamilton, Missouri, 19; fourth, Yount, Red Lands, 21; fifth, Pamonn, Kansas, 23; sixth, Cann, N. Y. University, 26.

STANDARD BALL IS FAVORED

U. S. G. A. Committee Listens to Arguments About Proposed Rule Changes

By ROBERT E. HARLOW.

New York, May 1.—Four members of the special rules committee of the United States Golf Association sat and listened while delegates representing practically all of the golfers of America poured forth their ideas concerning the proposed changes in the rules of golf.

The committee is to sail for England May 22 in order to make uniform the golf rules of Great Britain and the United States, and to discuss with the committee of the Royal and Ancient Club of St. Andrews the propositions of standardizing the golf ball, eliminating the stymie and making other changes in the golf code.

The committee will go to England uninstructed, but it had everything that was said at the meeting written out and will study the contents of the report carefully on the trip over. Upon the question of the standard ball the delegates were practically unanimous. They were agreed that a limit should be set on the flying power of the ball, but otherwise the majority believed in giving the manufacturers a free swing.

They agreed that the present ball was satisfactory.

Alex Pirie, secretary of the Professional Golfers' Association, said that he had been instructed by the New England, Metropolitan, Western and Southeastern branches of the association to report to the rules committee that the professionals were against legislation which would retard the flight of the ball, but were for setting the present day long-carrying ball as the limit at which the manufacturers should stop.

Layton Calkins said he thought nearly every golfer took keen delight in giving the ball a long wallop, and if the manufacturers were clever enough to keep adding to the distance of the ball, the members of the clubs would prefer to pay the price for lengthening the courses rather than to forego the pleasure of "swatting the ball a mile."

Robert Lesley advised that too many regulations interfering with the natural life of the ball on the fairways and greens would tend to eliminate the element of chance from golf and make it more of a game than sport.

Delegates were present from the following golf associations: Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, Intercollegiate, Cleveland, Metropolitan, Missouri, New Jersey, Ohio, Philadelphia, Western Penn, Wisconsin, Western, Southern and Central Texas, Trans-Mississippi and Professional.

Wollaston Golfers Run True to Form

The playing of Fred Wright, W. E. Smith and T. L. Tewksbury featured the first and second rounds of match play at Wollaston. Wright and Tewksbury had a fairly easy day, but Smith was not so fortunate, being taken to the nineteenth green by George Aulbach and to the seventeenth by Joe Farren.

First round results:

FIRST DIVISION.

Tewksbury beat Eaton, 4 and 3.
Cox beat Snelling, by default.
McCarthy beat Tate, by default.
Van Arsdale beat Hitchcock, 1 up.
Wright beat Paton, 4 and 3.
Marden beat Hoxie, 1 up.
Farren beat Fleming, 1 up.
Smith beat Aulbach, 1 up, 19 holes.

SECOND DIVISION.

Morning Matches.

Duncan beat Henderson, 1 up.
Traverse beat Gallagher, by default.
Burgess beat Moran, 3 and 2.
Thayer beat Dowling, 2 and 1.
Bond beat Williams, by default.
Brooks beat Thompson, by default.
Hall beat Hern, 2 up.
Hannon beat Workman, by default.

Second round results:

FIRST DIVISION.

Tewksbury beat Cox, 6 and 5.
McCarthy beat Van Arsdale, 2 and 1.
Wright beat Marden, 4 and 3.
Smith beat Farren, 2 and 1.

SECOND DIVISION.

Traverse beat Duncan, 5 and 4.
Burgess beat Thayer, 5 and 4.
Bond beat Brooks, 1 up, 19 holes.
Hannon beat Hall, 1 up.

OESCHGER OUT FOR REVENGE

Shutout Pitcher Elected to Hurl Against Dodgers—Grimes Goes in for Foe

By NICK FLATLEY.

Shutout Joseph Oeschger strode forth seeking revenge at the home of the Braves this afternoon. There was blood in his usually calm eye, and plenty of zip on his fast ones, as he prepared to face the Brooklyn Dodgers, erstwhile league leaders.

The Dodgers defeated Joseph over in Brooklyn, but it took them eleven innings to get the one run that meant victory. Mister Oeschger really deserved to win, and was accordingly out today to collect his deserts. The Braves showed that the three defeats over in Flatbush didn't affect their confidence or put them in any fear of the invaders.

They faced Jeff Pfeffer and the flying Robins just as confidently as they assaulted the dining tables in the South, and their impressive display of the national pastime was sufficient to make the assembled fans sit up and take notice.

Five Brave Pitchers in Form Now

While those who have journeyed to the wigwam thus far aren't expecting any pennants, they do figure that the 1920 Braves will cut quite a figure in the campaign. Five pitchers—Oeschger, Fillingim, McQuillan, Eayrs and Scott—have produced enough to make any team dangerous, and the most dependable bird of the outfit, Richard Rudolph, is just about ready to step in and take a hand.

Wherefore the remaining games of this Brooklyn series promised plenty of scrappy baseball. The defeat yesterday hauled the Dodgers down out of a tie for first place, and that was hard to swallow. Uncle Robbie has a fast, fighting team, the best pitching staff in the league, and will no be put aside without a flock of trouble.

Grimes Likely Brooklyn Heaver

Burleigh Grimes, who is better than ever this season, was the most probable of the hostile nominees for sharp shooting. Burleigh beat the Braves in Brooklyn, and figured he could do the same thing here. As both teams are moving, the stage was all set for a very thrilling half-holiday of baseball.

SCHOOL CREWS DIVIDE HONORS IN FIRST RACES

Brookline High School's season on the river opened with races between the first and second Brookline crews and those of Brown & Nichols. The first crew of Brown & Nichols beat Brookline's first by three lengths. The time was 6m. 18s.

A victory was pulled for Brookline by the second crew, which finished ahead of Brown & Nichols' second, by one and one-quarter lengths, in 7m. 18s. Milton Kramer of Brookline High, is coxswain of the second, and Hubert Canning, No. 2, showed very good form.

Bankers Play Ball

The Richardson-Hill nine downed Kidder-Peabody, 16 to 2, at Rindge Field, Cambridge, in a Banking League game. Elvert and Jones' work was the outstanding feature of the fray.

'Bugs' Baer's Column

MAY DAY

THE best thing we can chirp about Spring is that it should be here. May first is the notch on the calendar when all the children grab charleyhorses from flatwheeling around the May pole.

THE Queen of the May turns mother into a dollar alarm clock and buzzes ma to wake her early. Ma does that little thing and the Queen bounces a high-heeled shoe off mother's skullpiece as a token of love and affliction. Queens hate to be bilked of their complexion snooze even if the complexion is on the dressing table.

* * *

QUEENIE dolls herself up in chiffon overalls and hangs a halo of poisoned olives around her dome. While sister is spraining her high heels on the May dance, brother is polishing up his workingman's card in the striker's union. He is going to tear off a May day dance around at policeman's seventeen-year-locust stick. So named because it's seventeen years before you ask what spanked you on the bean.

* * *

MAY DAY means nothing to the man wot works. And work means zero to the man who May Days. Don't confuse the honest union laborer with the honest union loafer. The I. W. W. picks out May Day for its bumming and bombing parades because they love the law. They are friends with the world and shake hands so heartily with the cops that they tear the sleeves out of their uniforms.

* * *

THE cop is very courteous also. He tips the other guy's hat and hangs a wreath of lumps on his coco. The high price of wool is bleating on the hillside and all the world is cutting out paper dolls. They call it May Day because you may live through the day. And you may not. The accent is on the last paragraph.

* * *

IN the North, the fields and the woods are riots of color. There are also riots of color in the South. The ice is off the river and the typhoid germs are looking for customers. Nature is wonderful. Flowers are cracking into bloom and the walking delegates are in the woods gathering bouquets of shrinking violence.

* * *

IT is May. Which sounds like the start of a Presidential speech, but means a month. The corn and rye are poking their heads above the ground, but they might as well pull 'em back. Ain't no use. The brooks are gurgling in the meadows and internal revenue agents are analyzing their contents to determine what makes 'em gurgle. The merry children still dance around the May Pole while the delinquent alienists are playing pinochle. The farmer lets his wife chop the wood, milk the cows, churn the butter and then hitches her to the plow to remind her that life is not one continual round of pleasure. The cruel war is over except for the taxes.

IN spite of the bad telephone connections, Spring is here. The cuckoos are dizzy trying to keep up with the correct time. The sparrow builds himself a nest out of the New Jersey straw vote and the defeated candidate squawks for a recount. He gets it and is nominated by an overwhelming minority. All through the woods and pastures, happy families are bivouacking far from the high rent district in blizzard-cooled apartments, drenched by the morning dew and kissed by the Sun.

IT is May. Far off in the wicked city, the landlord is picking the young Spring buds off his bankroll.

RED SOX BATTER CARL MAYS

Assault on the Blonde-Haired Pitcher in Seventh Inning Brings Boston Victory

New York, May 1.—The Red Sox showed some ten thousand Yankee fans just why they happen to be leading the league. That's a gritty aggregation, that Boston crowd, and they put up as peppery a game as any team that has been on the Polo Grounds this Spring.

The Red Sox handed it to their old friend, Carl Mays, again yesterday. That's the second time Carl has stubbed his toe trying to beat his old team this Spring, and maybe he didn't enjoy it, just like eating worms. When Tim Hendryx sneaked in with the run that put Boston ahead in the eighth, Carl looked so pleased that a lot of folks thought he would bite a piece out of the concrete stands.

A shower lasting about a half hour did the Sox more good than the Yanks. It came while New York was at bat in the fourth. Up to that time the Yanks had been stinging Waite Hoyt fairly lively. They had got to him for five hits, while outside of Hooper none of the Sox was able to get at all intimate with Mays.

Rest Big Help to Hoyt

But the rest during the rain helped Hoyt to steady, for the Yanks fired only three desultory hits after the intermission. The Sox, however, started to mess up Mays in the seventh when they tied the score on singles by Foster and Walters, with a sacrifice sandwiched in between the hits. They subjected Carl to quite a bit of abuse in the eighth, scoring two runs on Hendryx's double, McInnis' single, Scott's double and a couple of outs.

Even without Ruth, the Sox have developed into quite a home running club. Hooper hit another home run yesterday, giving him two in as many days. Mike Menosky, who was back in the game limping perceptibly, also should have got a homer on a knock into the right field stand in the ninth, but Bill Dineen called it a foul.

MAY FESTIVAL AT NAVY YARD

King Neptune and Others Take Part in Frolics of Sailors' Haven

Maypole dancing, court ceremonies by King Neptune and his suite, a concert by the Navy Yard Band and other varied features were enjoyed by thousands of sailors and prominent local people at the Charlestown Navy yard, where a May festival was held under the auspices of the Sailors' Haven of Boston.

Stanton H. King, superintendent of the Haven and director of the Starboard Watch Club, an organization of Greater Boston society women which assisted in staging the affair, was in charge of the entertainment and contributed a series of deep-sea chanties to the program.

The opening feature was the concert, Torville Rasmusen, U. S. N., conducting. This was followed by the entrance of Morris dancers, archers, milkmaids and other old English types, together with famous Elizabethan characters. Miss Margaret O'Rourke was Queen of the May, Miss M. F. MacCrillis, Robin Hood; Miss Alice White, Mistress of the Day; Miss M. E. Harrington, Maid Marian, and Mrs. C. M. Josie, Will Scarlet. A solo gypsy dance was given by Miss Florence Holmes of Newton Highlands.

The dancers were young ladies of the Sailors' Haven Society, the Starboard Watch Club and of the congregations of St. John's Episcopal Church, East Boston, and St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, Lynn. At the conclusion of the Maypole dances, King Neptune, represented by Lieutenant E. M. Shock, U. S. N., and his train of dentists, astronomers, policemen and other courtiers, entered and the frolics traditional in crossing the equator were given.

IRISH SOCIETIES PLAN PROTEST

To replenish the treasury and increase the membership roll the Knights of St. Finbar and Cork Women's Association will hold a "leap year" party in Paine Memorial Hall, No. 9 Appleton street, Monday evening.

Features of the affair will be a beauty contest, in which will appear a number of colleens.

Irish societies in and about Boston will tomorrow meet and arrange for co-operation with the Central Council of Irish County Associations in making the proposed demonstration on Boston Common a success.

The purpose of the demonstration, which will be held some Sunday afternoon this month, is to pass a resolution of protest against the continuation of British atrocities in Ireland.

TAXI LINE MUST PUT ON HEADLIGHTS

State Registrar Frank A. Goodwin has ordered the Taxi Service Company of Boston to equip all its machines with headlights as a result of an accident in Medford, April 18, when Mrs. Julia E. Morehouse was killed and three other persons were injured. Cummins Brothers, also a taxi company, were ordered to appear at a public hearing the coming week to show cause why the same course should not be followed by them.

SUES BROKERS TO COLLECT $11,232

A bill in equity filed in Superior Court by the Amsterdam Agency, Inc., against the stock brokerage firm of George L. Ware & Co., claims that the Ware concern owes it a balance of $11,232.81. At the request of the Amsterdam Agency, Judge Fox ordered an attachment of $5,000 against the Equitable Trust Company, Metropolitan Trust Company, F. H. Swift & Co. and Kenneth Lewis, it being claimed that these firms have funds belonging to the Ware company.

WALTER HAMPDEN BOSTON OPERA HOUSE

AUDREY BAIRD SOMERVILLE

About this time of year in seasons past most of the theatres locked up and put out signs like the following:

"This house closed for important repairs and renovations. Will reopen early in the Fall."

When they reopened it was discovered that the repairs and renovations consisted of a new door knob and a piece of oilcloth in front of the ticket window.

Here it is the first of May, and instead of giving the ticket man and door keepers a long vacation without pay the theatres announce the most brilliant week of the season.

No less than four brand new attractions enter hopefully, the Pops begin their season of ice cream concerts at Symphony Hall and Walter Hampden proposes to show Boston Shylock as Shakespeare intended him to be.

Just think of two rival Shakespearean companies competing with each other in May in Boston. These be strange times we live in, brothers and sisters.

Even the old Castle Square (Arlington) a stock house for thirty years, is now enrolled as a first-class theatre with a Shubert management, and who knows by the time September rolls around again if the old Grand Opera House on Washington street won't blossom forth again in its old-time splendor.

New Herbert Operetta.

Georgia O'Ramey is announced in "Oui, Madame," at the Wilbur, a new Victor Herbert operetta, said to be both tuneful and amusing. As an extra added attraction Victor Herbert himself will stroll down the aisle on Monday night, bow to friends in the audience and with a gardenia in his button hole and snowy white gloves conduct his score from beginning to end.

Miss O'Ramey is one of those stars who hates to leave Broadway and she has deserted three or four shows in which she made a New York success before they reached Boston.

But prohibition has saddened New York to such an extent that Miss O'Ramey finds it possible to leave the place for weeks at a time and discovers on her return that she hasn't missed a thing.

Its a curious coincidence that Georgia O'Ramey and Florence Moore were roommates at Oberlin College in Ohio, and both find the higher education very helpful in making faces at audiences and provoking laughter.

Miss Moore is a low comedienne, but Miss O'Ramey is even lower, having not hesitated to bite a gentleman in the ankle in "Leave It to Jane" in order to collect a chuckle. I understand that Miss O'Ramey started in the show business playing the violin, but she broke it over the head of a bad piano player early in her career, and, no longer owning a violin, she became a comedienne.

"Howdy, Folks."

"Howdy, Folks," which succeeds "Honey Girl" at the Majestic, started out with the most impressive name of "Thunder." You see the firm of Golden and Winchell Smith had produced Frank Bacon's "Lightning," which became the sensation of New York, and is still running there. Having another "Hey, Rube," entertainment, they thought "Thunder" would go nicely as a name, and they got a theatre across the street from "Lightning."

"Thunder" sort of suggested something tremendously powerful and at least a David Belasco storm, and finally they decided that the simple comedy of North Carolina people should be called "Howdy, Folks."

Alone in a Ladies' Seminary.

"The Charm School" is not a musical comedy, declares Miss May Dowling, the lady press agent. "It is a comedy with some musical interpolations. If you read the Saturday Evening Post you recall the romance by Alice Duer Miller in which a handsome young man was left the ownership of a young ladies' seminary by a maiden aunt and elected to run the place himself."

Mrs. Miller collaborated with Robert Milton upon the dramatization, and it is rumored that a veritable bouquet of beauties were chosen to play the school girls.

Shakespeare's Old Pal.

Robert Mantell with his Shakespearean repertory company will be installed at the Hollis Street Theatre, Monday. For years Mantell has been Shakespeare's only friend, and now he finds Walter Hampden at the head of a repertory company to give him a run for his money. Just to show Boston that Hampden is not the only Hamlet, Mantell will play the "Morose Dane" on Tuesday night. Monday he will step out of Shakespeare to play "Richelieu," one of his greatest achievements.

Lee Frowns on High Prices.

Mr. Lee Shubert, who is a very astute person, and who now controls six out of the ten first-class theatres in Boston, declares that managers have no right to charge five dollars a seat for a theatrical production, that it is killing the goose that lays the golden egg, and as far as the Shuberts are concerned it isn't going to be done.

Right, Mr. Shubert. Existing prices are keeping away too many of the better class of theatregoers now, and if you soak it to 'em any more nobody will be left to sit in the orchestra except the fellows who used to patronize the gallery.

As a matter of fact, only one manager has actually announced that he will charge five dollars next season, and that for only one show. Mr. Flo Ziegfeld thinks his Follies are entitled to such a price. The Follies are the most expensive production in the show business. If the public agrees with Mr. Ziegfeld, he will get his five dollars; if it doesn't and remains away he will reduce his prices with lightning rapidity.

What the managers should really arrange is a sliding scale of prices based upon the expense of the productions. I can sympathise with the proprietor of a huge musical show carrying a trainload of scenery and a hundred people who finds it necessary to charge three dollars a seat, but the owner of a comedy with six people in the cast and one set who attempts to charge the same money should be taken out and publicly hung.

Talented Understudies.

Those who have enjoyed Monsieur Beaucaire appreciate the exacting musical demands of the principal roles, and they will understand why the management carries a skillful understudy for Blanche Tomlin in the person of Isabel Rhys.

The understudies are usually chosen from the chorus, but no chorister could sing the brilliant music of Lady Mary Carlisle. Miss Rhys is the daughter of a Welsh minister, born at Swansea, England, and she studied for grand opera. She toured the world in company with the Quinlan Opera company, and was studying in London with Henry Stanley when a chance came to sing Mary in "Beaucaire." Because of her success in the role in London Gilbert Miller brought her to America to sing the part with Miss Blanco Tomlin. Miss Rhys has had several opportunities to sing the part in Boston.

What Makes Popular Songs.

Harold Orlob—some day I am going to ask him how he got that curious name—composed "Listen Lester," has some information to impart regarding what makes a song popular.

"A song to please the modern public must have some 'pep' to it, a lively rhythm and a good swing. The mushy, sobby, sentimental songs of twenty-years ago won't go any more. Even the semi-martial songs so popular during the war are falling flat. What the public wants today are lively, jazzy songs, with some love interest, and the jazz musn't be too cheap. A song can be jazzy and musical at the same time, and such songs as those are what I have tried to write in 'Listen Lester.'"

Corthell a Farmer.

Herbert Corthell is one of those who deplore the effort of the theatres to stay open all Summer. The star of "Fifty-Fifty" has a farm down at Norwalk, Connecticut, which he owns with Edmund Breese, the other "heavy."

"That's the life for me. Up at four o'clock every morning, plenty of hard work every day and to bed at seven at night. Do we sleep at that early hour? Well, let me tell you the trump of doom won't wake me after a hard day's work on the farm."

A Prophecy That Came True.

Lloyd Neal, who has the role of McGinnis, Sr., supporting William Courtenay in "Civilian Clothes," at the Park Square Theatre, was born in Detroit. At an early age he joined an amateur theatrical club which gave a performance every week. This aroused his father who classed the stage as a foolishness and saw his boy headed toward ruination. The elder Neal was associated with the late Mayor Pingree of Detroit in a large shoe manufactory and he decreed that Lloyd should become a maker of shoes and cut out the folly of making folks laugh. Young Neal refused to enter the shoe business and his father in wrath said, "You won't let me make a first-class shoemaker out of you, but some day I may find you playing a common cobbler on the stage." Sure enough, the elder Neal's prophecy has come true for we now find Lloyd playing the cobbler in "Civilian Clothes" and making a hit in the part, too.

Ready to Enter Lion's Cage.

Alma Tell, the stately star of "Susan Lenox," does not look like an animal trainer, but she is.

For one of the most telling scenes in this unusual melodrama of love and passion comes when Susan is about to escape from the home of her drunken husband, the latter's white setter bounds in through the window. For a second, it seems as though the watchdog will devour the frail woman. Then the latter sets a dish of food on the floor, the dog savagely attacks this, and Susan escapes.

Difficult as it was to secure human actors for this moving drama, the securing of a canine actor proved far more difficult. When at last a dog of suitably savage mien was found the duty of training this canine devolved upon Miss Tell.

She spent many weary hours in getting the dog to go through the scene properly, and now feels qualified to apply for position with any circus which may be in need of an expert animal trainer.

WILBUR THEATRE

Victor Herbert will personally wield the baton at his latest triumph "Oui Madame," at the Wilbur Theatre Monday evening. "Oui Madame" has scored in Philadelphia and Baltimore.

That the producers have spared no expense in procuring the best talent available is revealed by the fact that Georgia O'Ramey is the featured player. Miss O'Ramey is admitted to be one of the cleverest comediennes on the stage.

Vinton Freedley, Hattie Burks and Adele Hassan are a trio of talented players who have been seen recently in leading roles in other successes. Then there is Catherine Calhoun Doucet, May Thompson, John C. Butler, Eleanor Sinclair, Marguerite St. Clair, Dolly Alwyn, Dorothy St. Clair, John V. Lowe, Howard Remig, Karl Nielsen, and others including the chorus.

Another important factor in "Oui Madame" is that it was staged under the personal direction of Ned Wayburn, the famous producer of "The Follies."

PLYMOUTH THEATRE

"The Charm School," a beguiling comedy by Alice Duer Miller and Robert Milton, will be presented at the Plymouth Theatre next Monday evening. Readers of light fiction are already familiar with the story of "The Charm School," as it appeared in the Saturday Evening Post. The dramatization was made by Mrs. Miller and Mr. Milton, who describe it as a comedy, with a bit of music by Jerome Kern.

The occasion of the presentation of "The Charm School" at the Plymouth Theatre marks the entrance of Robert Milton as an independent producer.

He has been working on the play for several months, and when it opens next Monday evening, after playing a week in Baltimore and one week in Washington, Sam Hardy, Marie Carroll, Minnie Dupree and Margaret Dale will be seen in the various leading roles.

The story tells of a young man who inherits a girls' boarding school through the death of an aunt. The young man in question is not only young but quite handsome.

MAJESTIC THEATRE

John Golden, who has pledged himself to wholesome American topics as the basis of all his comedies, will present "Howdy, Folks," at the Majestic next week. It follows his three live wires, with which Boston is familiar, "3 Wise Fools," "Lightnin'" and "Turn to the Right." The plots of two of these are unfolded in New York, and "Lightnin'" takes place in Nevada. The dramatist of "Howdy, Folks," Miss Pearl Franklin, peoples her play with the residents of Tryon Mountain, North Carolina. They were observed at leisure by a visiting novelist, Mrs. Ella W. Beattie, who found in an itinerant preacher a central figure for her narrative. He has to rule the neighborhood by muscle at times, considering that there are feudists in his flock.

Alphons Ethier, who followed Lionel Barrymore in "The Jest," plays the preacher. The main line narrative follows the fortunes of a runaway from a circus, Miss Marian Swayne. The types, numerous in "Howdy, Folks," fall to Miss Marion Kerby, Miss Leila Bennett, Miss Marie Day, Horace James, Benjamin Kauser, Cliff Heckinger, Chester Morris, Frederick Malcolm, Hart E. Helsey, Wilson Day, Charles Macdonald, Harry B. Willard, Beth Merrill and J. F. O'Reilly.

BOSTON OPERA HOUSE.

Walter Hampden's eagerly-awaited portrayal of Shylock will be given—for the first time on any stage—at the Boston Opera House on Monday evening. Mr. Hampden has had this role long in preparation and has reserved his premiere in its out of compliment to the city that has so honored his Hamlet. The full strength of his excellent company will be enlisted, with Mary Hall as Portia, Beatrice Maude as Jessica, Elsie Herndon Kearns as Nerissa, Allen Thomas as Old Gobbo, J. Harry Irvine as Bassanio, William Sauter as Antonio and the others similarly happily cast. "The Merchant of Venice" will be given on Monday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings and at the Saturday matinee.

KEITH'S THEATRE

Jack Norworth will head the bill at Keith's Theatre next week with a batch of new songs. Jack has no rivals on the stage. He is distinctive, original, clever in all he says and does, has the American temperament and a 100-horse-power personality to put things "over."

Next on the bill comes Julius Tannen, a comedy in himself, who is generally known as the "Chatterbox" in a notable monologue. He was one of those who made "Potash and Perlmutter" famous. Frances Pritchard comes from "The Midnight Century Whirl," with an act written by Arthur Swanstrom and Corey Morgan.

MALDEN AUDITORIUM

Considerable interest is being manifested in the great laughing success, "She Walked in Her Sleep," which will be presented the coming week by the Temple Stock Company at the Malden Auditorium.

GAYETY THEATRE

Reputed to be one of the most sterling examples of what advanced burlesque should be, "The Maids of America" will be the attraction at the Gayety Theatre next week, beginning with the matinee performance on Monday, presenting the two-act travesty, "Without Rhyme or Reason." The company is headed by Bobby Barry, comedian of note, who is assisted by George Leon, eccentric comique; Florence Rother, dramatic soprano; George E. Snyder, Jane Mae, Ruby Walling and the well-known vaudeville trio, Rogers, Ellsworth and Golden. There is a beauty chorus of more than a score of singers and dancers who were picked fresh from Broadway.

WALDRON'S CASINO

Lew Kelly, the wizard of burlesque comedy, who for many seasons has stirred the burlesque pulse annually with his wit and comedy, will be seen all next week at Waldron's Casino in a production which is in every way up to those productions with which his name has been associated in the past. The book is entirely new, entitled "The Submarine Man." It owes its authorship to A. Douglass Leavitt, who also wrote the lyrics. Mr. Kelly is again seen in his famous character. His performance gives a legitimate flash to the burlesque stage, for it is far away from accepted standards of comedy in this form of amusement.

SOMERVILLE THEATRE

To learn of the good things contained in "The Blue Envelope," one will have to visit the Somerville Theatre during the coming week, where it will be presented by the capable Somerville Players. The only information regarding it which has been divulged is that it contains a world of pleasure, is addressed to lovers of fun and is stamped with joy and comedy.

TITTA RUFFO

Titta Ruffo, the famous Italian baritone who will appear in concert at Symphony Hall, Sunday afternoon, is prouder of having worked his way in the army up to the grade of sergeant than he is of all the ovations which he has had throughout the world in the course of his operatic work. From the day of his enlistment in the Italian army when war broke out, until his discharge, Ruffo devoted himself to military duties entirely. He found, upon resuming his singing, however, that his voice had lost none of its power or sweetness.

VICTOR CONCERT

On Sunday afternoon, May 16, Symphony Hall will witness an unusual concert in that instead of one or two artists appearing, there will be eight of them. The list of the artists includes Henry Burr, tenor; Albert Campbell, tenor; John H. Meyers, baritone; Frank Croxton, basso; Monroe Silver, the "Cohen" man; Fred van Eps, banjoist; Frank Banta, pianist, and "Billy" Murray. These comprise, in some form or other, the "Sterling Trio," and the "Peerless Quartet." The tickets for this concert are scheduled to go on sale at Symphony and Steinert Halls on Monday, May 10.

THE POPS ARE HERE

That famous Bostonian institution, the Pop Concerts, will take possession of Symphony Hall Monday, May 3, with a grand eclat, to continue nightly except Sundays, for sixty nights. Having attained unprecedented proportions last year (despite prohibition) the Pops promise to exceed that record in 1920. For every favorable condition that made for successful Pops then has been enhanced. Maestro Jacchia's charming set of programs speak for themselves. A symphony orchestra of eighty is ready to give them the finest performances.

OPENING NIGHT, MONDAY, MAY 3.

Marche Militaire	Schubert
Overture to the "Merry Wives of Windsor"	Nicoll

O'TOOLE TO SING SOLDIER'S SONG

When Emmet O'Toole, the tenor from Galway, makes his Boston debut in concert at Tremont Temple on Saturday evening, May 15th, he will be enthusiastically supported by the local Irish organisations, for some of whom he has worked hard during his few weeks in Boston, to help put over the Irish bond drive.

O'Toole is a member of the Irish Volunteers, the Sinn Fein, the Clan na Gael, and his patriotic efforts in Ireland led to his being forced to emigrate. He possesses a lyric tenor voice of wonderful sweetness. Being from the west of Ireland O'Toole speaks the Gaelic tongue and by special request will sing three songs in Gaelic at his concert. They are "Eileen Aroon," "Shule Agara" and "Men of the West." The feature of the concert is expected to be in the singing for the first time at a big public concert in Boston the "Soldier's Song," proscribed in Ireland, but which O'Toole sang in the town hall in Galway City despite the authorities just before he came to America.

The words of "Soldiers of Erin," which is the title of the "Soldier's Song," were written by Kearney, but the music was composed by Victor Herbert. Mr. O'Toole will be assisted at his Boston concert by Marjorie Daley, dramatic soprano, and E. D. Illingworth, piano and organ.

LOEW'S ORPHEUM THEATRE

William Demarest and Estelle Collette, the popular vaudeville entertainers, will be here in trifling talk, fancy fiddling and a careless cello stunt. Milton Pollack and company will present a clever one-act comedy styled "Speaking to Father," which is filled with genuine laughter. The Three Priscilla girls will offer an artistic revue of fashion, frolic and steps; Retter Brothers, the Gym Kings, will introduce the man who wrestles with himself; and Gulfport and Brown will appear in an up-to-the-minute singing and dancing skit. The photoplay will be the latest release of Sessue Hayakawa in "The Devil's Claim."

CODMAN SQUARE THEATRE

The photoplay for the first half of the week will be Alice Joyce's famous starring vehicle "Slaves of Pride" which gives a good-sized peep into the so-called 400, or the upper crust of society.

McISAAC says that

"MONSIEURN BEAUCAIRE," the brilliant operetta at the Tremont, announces its last week.

HERBERT CORTHELL, in "Fifty-Fifty," is funnier than ever, and the little musical comedy is very amusing. Shubert.

WILLIAM COURTENAY, in "Civilian Clothes," at the Park Square, is demonstrating unexpected gifts as a character actor as well as matinee idol. The piece is diverting.

"LISTEN, LESTER," is a speedy affair of jazz, nonsense and girls. People seem to like it here, as they did elsewhere. Colonial.

NEW CROOK DRAMA AT PARK

Paul Armstrong, co-author of the sensational stage success, "The Deep Purple," a film version of which comes to the Park Theatre on Monday, was one of the first students of Lombroso theory of physical influence in criminology. Mr. Armstrong delved deeply into the pshchology of the criminal mind and the theories formed as a result of his investigations have been put to practical use by many of the country's phrenological experts.

It was Armstrong's habit to spend months at a time in the haunts of crooks. The atmosphere and types of his two most famous successes, "The Deep Purple" and "Alias Jimmy Valentine," were taken immediately from sketches made from this source. It was his belief that crime is a form of hereditary disease, which, if given scientific treatment, can be cured. As a matter of fact, all of his many experiments along these lines were unsuccessful and resulted in the bitterest and most disappointing experiences of his life.

Armstrong's intimate knowledge of the under worlds, its habitues and their strange psychology is better reflected in "The Deep Purple" than in any other of his numerous crook stories.

Dolly Was Scared.

Dorothy Dalton didn't altogether enjoy making some of the scenes for her latest Thomas H. Ince picture, "The Dark Mirror," which will be the attraction at the Modern and Beacon Theatres commencing Monday.

"We spent several nights at one of the famous cafes on the Bowery," said Miss Dalton, discussing the picture. "The camera was carefully concealed, and I don't think any of the frequenters of the place suspected who we were. I was having a good time, although it required me to munch on a soggy sandwich and drink some nondescript liquid that was supposed to be beer, but wasn't.

Suddenly I looked around, and a rough fellow with all the earmarks of a thug was staring at me. Catching my eye, he smiled a little wicked grin. I think he was wise to us. But I didn't stay to find out. I insisted to Mr. Giblyn, our director, that we leave at once. All the way uptown I had a feeling that that evil-looking man was following us, and it was with a feeling of relief that I found myself alone in my little apartment."

"The Dark Mirror" was adapted from Louis Joseph Vance's novel of the same name. It is a Paramount Artcraft picture.

17 Cents a Day for Life.

"How long must I live on seventeen cents a day?" asked pretty Anita Stewart, the motion picture star during the filming of "In Old Kentucky," now being shown at Tremont Temple.

"For all eternity," replied Marshall Neilan, the famous director, who superintended the making of this remarkable screen drama.

And although it took Miss Stewart some time to see the point, Neilan spoke the truth. When a stage plays a part he or she plays it but for a night. But when an actor or actress portrays a role for the scene, they commit themselves to a characterization which may last forever and will certainly last for years.

It is extremely improbable that Miss Stewart, who actually lived the rude and simple life of a Kentucky mountain maiden during the filming of the picture, will ever repeat this experiment. But the future generation will know her in this character, and perhaps generations yet to come will know her only in this way.

SCOLLAY SQUARE OLYMPIA

What is declared to be one of the outstanding motion picture events of the season is the picturization of Robert Louis Stevenson's famous story, "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," with John Barrymore in the leading role.

The Stevenson classic is undoubtedly the greatest story about dual personality ever written. It is fitting that John Barrymore, with his surpassing talents as an emotional star, should interpret the part.

Martha Mansfield, a beauty of the stage, has the leading femine role, and Brandon Hurst and Cecil Clovelly are among those in the supporting cast. John B. Robertson directed the picture.

An exceptional bill of vaudeville, the Olympia Weekly and a short comedy complete the bill.

LOEW'S GLOBE THEATRE

Another splendid program has been arranged for the coming week at Loew's Globe Theatre, Washington street, near Boylston. Sessue Hayakawa, the Booth of the Orient, will be shown in his latest release "The Devil's Claim," which is brimful of suspense and tells the tale of a "mental vampire" in a most vivid manner.

GORDON'S CENTRAL SQ.

The work of two famous New York beauties is a feature of "Dr. Jekyl and Mr. Hyde," the Paramount Artcraft screen version of Stevenson's famous story, in which John Barrymore is coming to Gordon's Cambridge Central Square Theatre, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. "Dr. Jekyl and Mr. Hyde" is in every respect remarkable. There will also be a very fine bill of five vaudeville acts, consisting of Foster, Ball and company in "The Grand Army Man"; Sherwin Kelly, the singing cyclist; Langton and Smith in "The Two Chums"; the Five Musical MacLarens, in "A Wee Bit o' Scotch," and Dixon and Crowe.

WALDORF THEATRE

"Dooley Holiday," a medley of mirth and music with youthful beauty and clever dancing as appropriate trimmings is the feature of the program at the Waldorf Theatre this week. Jack Christie's musical comedy will present this uproariously funny farce with its jazzy tunes, and Marguerite McLaughlin for the first half of the week. Christie's troupe is said to include a number of clever performers, and eight exceptionally pretty girls.

LOEW'S COLUMBIA THEATRE

Monday's program will be comprised of Madelaine Traverse in "The Tattlers" and Augustus Thomas' great stage success, "Rio Grande." Amateur night will also be observed. On Tuesday Harry Carey will be seen in "Gunfighting Gentleman," and James K. Hackett in "The Greatest Sinner."

PARK THEATRE

"The Deep Purple," the filmization of Wilson Mizner's and Paul Armstrong's powerful play of the New York underworld, will be the attraction at the Park Theatre beginning Monday. The stage version of this dramatic masterpiece was given its premier at the Lyric Theatre, New York, in 1911, and played here at the Plymouth Theatre the following year.

The film edition of this exciting melodrama has been made with intelligence and care, and affords an entertainment worthy of the attention of discerning playgoers. Miriam Cooper plays the role of Doris Moore, played in the stage versions by Catherine Calvert and later by Violet Heming. In the assisting cast are such well known names as Helen Ware, Vincent Serrano, W. J. Ferguson and Stuart Sage.

The story of the drama deals with the famous "badger game," through which more than one notorious crook has made a fortune, and through its tangled weave runs a pretty love romance. A spectacular cabaret scene has been staged by Bird Millman for the film production.

This Day in History—May 1, 1920

THIS is the anniversary of the detention by Charles I., in 1638, of a vessel bound for America carrying among others Oliver Cromwell and Walter Hampden. Cromwell was the nemesis of Charles, and responsible for his death by the headman's axe.

Total Moon Eclipse Tomorrow Night

THE full moon will pass through the shadow of the earth and be totally eclipsed tomorrow night. The eclipse begins about 7 o'clock Eastern time. The moon is in the constellation of Libra, and the red planet Mars looks on from his place a few degrees westward and will brighten a little as the moon's light fades.

THE YOUNG DIANA

Story of Tense Mystery in Which Heroine Holds Key to Youth

By Marie Corelli

CHAPTER XVI.—Continued.

"NO, not a bit! That's just the worst of it! see here, you dear, kind woman—here I am; a bought subject for Dr. Feodor to try his skill upon. He told me plainly enough on one occasion that it wouldn't matter and couldn't be helped if I died under his treatment—and I quite agreed with him. Up to the present I'm not dead and don't feel like dying—but I'm hardening! Yes! that's it! Steadily, slowly hardening! Not in my muscles—not in my arteries—no!—but in my sentiments and emotions which are becoming positively nil!"

Utter Disdain

Her merry laugh rang out again, and her eyes sparkled with amusement. "But what a good thing it is, after all! Men are so fond of telling one that they hate 'emotions'—so it's just as well to be without them! Now, for instance, I'm having a splendid time here—I love all the exercise in the open air, the skating, tobogganing, and dancing in the evening—it's all great fun, but I don't 'feel' that it is as splendid as it seems! Men flatter me every day—they say, 'How well you skate!' or 'How well you dance!' 'How well you play!' or even 'How charming you look!' and if such things had been said to me in England six months ago I should have been so happy and at ease that I should never have been afraid and awkward as I generally was in society—but now! Why now I simply don't care—I only think what fools men are!"

"But you must remember," said Madame Dimitrius gently—"you were very different in appearance six months ago to what you are now——"

"Exactly! That's just it!" And Diana gave an expressive gesture of utter disdain. "That's what I hate and despise! One is judged by looks only. I'm just the same woman as ever—six months ago I danced as well, skated as well, and played the piano as well as I do now—but no one ever gave me the smallest encouragement! Now everything I do is made the subject of exaggerated compliment, by the men of course!—not by the women; they always hate a successful rival of their own sex! Ah, how petty and contemptible it all is! You see I'm growing younk looks with old experience!—rather a dangerous combination of forces I think!—however, if our souls become angels when we die, they will have a vast experience to look back upon, dating from the beginning of creation!"

To Know All

"And, looking back so far, they will understand all," said Madame Dimitrius. "As one of our great writers has said: 'To know all is to pardon all.'"

Diana shrugged her shoulders.

"Perhaps!" she carelessly conceded. "But that's just where I should fail as an angel! I cannot 'pardon all.' I hold a standing grudge against injustice, callousness, cruelty and cowardice. I forgive none of these things. I loathe a hypocrite—especially a pious one! I should take pleasure in revenge of some sort on any such loathsome creature. I would rather save a fly from drowning in the milk-jug than a treacherous human being from the gallows!"

"Dear me!" and madame smiled—pecially when you assure me that you cannot 'feel!'"

"Oh, I can feel hatred!" said Diana. "That sort of feeling seems to have a good grip of me! But love, interest, sympathy for other folks—no! ten thousand times no! One might love a man with all the ardor and passion of a lifetime, and yet he may be capable of boasting of your 'interest' in him at his club and damaging your reputation—(you know some clubs are like old washerwomen's corners where they meet to talk scandal)—and you may waste half your time in interest and sympathy for other folks and they'll only ask dubiously, 'What is it all for?' and 'round' on you at the first opportunity, never crediting you with either honesty or unselfishness in your words or actions. No, no! It's best to 'play' the world's puppets—never to ecome one of them!"

"You are bitter, my dear!" commented madame. "I think it is because you have missed a man's true love."

Diana laughed and sprang up from her chair.

"Maybe!" she replied. "But—'a man's true love'—as I see it, seems hardly worth the missing! You are a dear, sentimental darling!—you have lived in the early Victorian' manner, finding an agreeable lover who gave you his heart, after the fashion of an antique Valentine, and whom you married in the proper and conventional style, and in due course gave him a baby. That's it! And oh, SUCH a bay! Feodore Dimitrius!—doctor of sciences and master of innumerable secrets of nature—yet, after all, only your 'baby!' It is a miracle! But I wonder if it was worth while! Don't mind my nonsense, dearest lady!—just think of me as hardening and shining!—like bits of the glacier we saw the other day which move only about an inch in a thousand years! There's a 'sports' ball on the ice tonight—a full moon too!—and your wonderful son has agreed to skate with me—I wish you would come and look at us!"

"I'm too old," said Madame Dimitrius, with a slight sigh. "I wish Feodor would make me young as he is making you!"

"He's afraid!" and Diana stood, looking at her for a moment. "He's afraid of killing you! But he's not afraid of killing me!"

With that she went—and Madame, laying down her work, folded her hands and prayed silently that no evil might come to her beloved son through the strange mysteries which he was seeking to solve, and which to her simple and uninstructed mind appeared connected with the powers of darkness rather than the powers of light.

Scored Triumph

That evening Diana scored a triumph as belle of the "sports" ball. Attired in a becoming skating costume of black velvet trimmed with white fur, with a charming little "toque" hat to match, set jauntily on her bright hair, and a bunch of edelweiss at her throat, she figured as an extremely pretty "girl," and her admirers were many. When Dimitrius came to claim his promised "glissade" by her side, she welcomed him smilingly, yet with an indifference which piqued him.

"Are you tired?" he asked. "Would you rather skate any more just now?"

She gave him an amused look.

"I am never tired," she said. "I could skate for ever, if it were not, like all things, certain to become monotonous. And I'm sure it's very good of you to skate with a woman 'of mature years' when there are so many nice girls about."

"You are the prettiest 'girl' here," he answered, with a smile. "Everyone says so!"

"And what do you say to everyone?" she demanded.

"I agree. Naturally!"

He took her hand, and together they started skimming easily over the ice, now shining like polished crystal in the radiance of the moon and the light thrown from torches set round the expanse of the skating ground by the hotel purveyors of pleasure for their visitors. Diana's lightness and grace of movement had from the first been the subject of admiring comment in the little world of humanity, gathered in the evening on the Swiss mountain heights, but this evening she seemed to surpass herself, and, with Dimitrius, executed wonderful steps and "figures" at flying speed with the ease of a bird on the wing. Men looked on in glum annoyance that Dimitrius should have so much of her company, and women eyed her with scarcely concealed jealousy. But at the end of an hour she said she had "had enough of it," and pulling off her skates she walked with a kind of sedate submissiveness beside Dimitrius away from the gay scene on the ice back to the hotel. Their way led through an avenue of pine trees, which, stiffly uplifting their spear-like points to the frosty skies and bright moon, looked like fantastic giant sentinels on guard for the night. Stopping abruptly in the midst of the eerie Winter stillness she said suddenly:

"Dr. Feodor, do you know I've had three proposals of marriage since I've been here?"

He smiled indulgently.

Question: "What Lights the World?" Answer: Engaged Girl; "I Know"

When a Girl Marries

Interesting Serial by Ann Lisle

NEAL caught my hand in his—and sure enough he did hold it tight for a minute; then I felt something cold slip over my finger and Neal's warm young lips pressed to the place.

"I want you to have it, lear. Mother would want you to have it—now," said Neal huskily.

On my hand sparkled the diamond circlet that had been mother's betrothal ring from dear Father Andrew—the ring I feared Neal was bringing back for Evvy. I stopped the car there by the fragrant, hedge-grown roadside, and, catching Neal's hand in the one where the ring rested, I laid it against my heart. But words wouldn't come.

In that moment we understood each other—and I knew that, whatever the cost, I couldn't do one thing to make Neal break his plighted word. I realized that his dear, Quixotic, high ideals were part of him, as they had been part of our little dead mother.

"Thank you, my lad," I managed to murmur. "Thank you."

In silence, then, my hand wearing the sparkling ring that only my mother and Phoebe had worn before me, we drove on—to Evvy.

Evvy's Car at Steps

As we drove up the circling road that leads from the gate of Mason Towers to the porte cochere at the left of the house, we noticed Evvy's blue car standing at the front steps.

"Maybe she was coming to town to get me," said Neal in a voice that suggested he was whipping himself to an enthusiasm he didn't feel.

"Pretty late for that, isn't it, dear?" I asked without taking deep thought of the matter.

"Guess it is."

Then Neal leaped out, swung me and his bag out of the car, and was just at the point of pressing his finger to the bell when I cried:

"See if the door's open, first. It ought to be here in the country And we might as well have a real surprise party."

The screen door gave at Neal's first touch, and so we crept in like two conspirators. Through the corridor to the living room we went without finding Evvy. The house lay cool and silent, shuttered and brooding, hidden away from the copper sun of late afternoon. We tiptoed along stifling our giggles and feeling very young and mischievous.

"I'll bet she's in the little Summer house," whispered Neal when the conservatory and the breakfast-room had joined the rest of the floor in refusing us Evvy.

So we ran along the corridor to the little house where Val and I had found Evvy with Neal the night she announced her engagement. As we approached we heard the click of ice in a glass and Evvy's voice—throaty, provocative, unmistakable.

"Some one with her," said Neal to me; then he called:

"Evvy—surprise party! Guess who's here!"

A Hasty Motion

And then we stepped over the threshold of the sweet-smelling, vine-hung Summer house. For a second my eyes refused to adjust themselves to the outdoor glare.

Then I saw Evvy on her feet by a chair her hasty movement had evidently overturned. She was standing straight and taut and looking with a queer, strained expression at her companion, who was rising from a chair at the farther side of the rustic table around which the Summer house was built.

I turned my head and met Jim's eyes.

Jim! My Jim! Alone with Evvy Mason at her country place. For a moment I trembled, tortured beyond thought of faith by a burning rush of the old jealousy. This was the second time I had surprised them! How they must have laughed before—how they must be laughing now! Harsh and ugly I felt laughter well up in my own throat. And then, as if they were hands to touch me gently, I became conscious of Jim's eyes on my face—on my very soul, it seemed. His eyes were intent, desperately earnest, they seemed to be waiting for what I would do.

I walked across the Summer house and laid my hand on Jim's shoulder. His hand went up to take it.

Then Evvy broke the silence. Turning to Neal, she cried in high, strident tones that bore no resemblance to the throaty, purring voice I had always heard:

"What are you doing here, Neal? I thought you were coming out tomorrow with mother."

"Anne stopped for me. We drove out in her little car—to surprise you," replied Neal with emotion that astonished me. Did he care for Evvy, after all?

"To surprise me!" laughed Evvy curtly. "Well, you did. What are you going to do about it?"

"Take my sister home!"

Neal's voice rang out and he started toward me with boyish concern for what he thought I was undergoing. But strangely enough I was undergoing nothing of what he thought. Jim's eyes—the touch of Jim's hand had told me that I had nothing to fear or to resent; that there was a reason for his being here and that the reason would satisfy me completely. At Neal's words Jim turned and looked at Neal—smiling as if he were waiting for something.

"I'll take Anne home, Neal. Perhaps you owe Neal some explanation of our tete-a-tete, Evvy," he added carelessly, "we'll run along and leave you to—straighten things out."

As he spoke his arm slid around my shoulders and I leaned close to him, expressing silently the love and faith I felt.

She Flings Back the Ring

Evvy studied us sneeringly for a moment—then she flung her arms out in a gesture of fury.

"So you've been making a fool of me again, Jim Harrison. Perhaps you staged this whole thing. You've been playing with me just as you did before. I wish I knew what it is you want of me—so I wouldn't have to do it this time. Well, run along—run along, you two. I wish you joy, you and your trusting wife."

"Evvy!" cried Neal. You're speaking to my sister! And it isn't Anne who has—offended you."

At this Evvy turned on him with a look of utter scorn.

"You fool," she said. "You young fool! Jim Harrison has you twisted around his finger, too. Here! I've had you twisted around mine long enough."

She jerked her engagement ring from her hand and flung it on the table among the glasses and plates. Then she turned on Jim, shaking with rage:

"I hate you!" she cried. "I only wish I could show you how much I hate you. Why did you call me back again? And now you stand there flaunting your love for Anne in my face! Why don't you say something? Why don't you explain your fickle, philandering nature? Perhaps you think I'll take you back again some day. But I won't—I'm through! You've made your choice of your angel-faced wife. You may stick to her for all of me—and I'll throw in her sweet baby brother for luck."

Then she rushed out of the Summer house.

We could hear her flying feet on the pebbles of the path, and then after a moment the chug-chug of a motor.

I looked at Neal. He seemed suddenly old and tired. But he didn't appear to be noticing Evvy's departure, nor yet the ring sparkling on the teatray.

Instead he was watching Jim and me with brooding, troubled eyes.

Shook Hands

"Evvy's gone!" gasped Neal. For For a minute he stood staring down the road where Evvy's blue car had disappeared in a scornful whirl of dust. Then he jerked around to the teatray where a ring lay looking small and deserted amid the contrasting largeness of cups and saucers and glasses.

Jim's eyes were fixed on Neal with a queer expression—at once quizzical and demanding, as if he were measuring Neal and trying to force him to measure up.

In their long first period of misunderstanding I had stood between my two boys and tried to interpret them to each other. Now I had to let them alone, to permit them to work out their own estimates of each other.

Neal looked up suddenly and met Jim's gaze. He stared at him, with the same look of probing Jim was fixing on him. Then, as if the words were wrenched from him, Neal exclaimed aggressively:

"If you've hurt Babbsie again, Jim—if your being here like this means any unhappiness for my sister—you sha'n't get away with it, I promise you that!"

Jim actually grinned. He advanced with quick stride, grabbed Neal's astonished hand and began pumping it up and down.

"You're all right, youngster!" he cried. "Some brother—some sport! If you're worried about Anne, turn and take a slant at her. Does she looked as if I'd hurt her—as if she doubted me?"

Neal—his hand still gripped by Jim's—turned, almost incredulously.

For the Thin and Bloodless!

The thin and bloodless, with pale cheeks, white lips and frail angular physique, of this community have been much interested in the reports of physicians and others concerning the effectiveness of the treatment for increasing the red and white corpuscles of the blood, thus adding color and weight with its accompanying vigor to the depleted system. A gain of from 10 to 30 pounds is not at all unusual where the treatment is regularly used for several months, while the color improves almost from the beginning. Most good apothecaries supply it in the form of three-grain hyponuclane tablets, put up in sealed packets with directions for home use. Its action aids assimilation and absorption of the food eaten very promptly.—Advertisement.

To induce a canary to take a bath, sprinkle a few seeds upon the water. This added attraction will make the bath become a habit.

Enamel baths can be thoroughly cleaned with a flannel dipped in paraffin, and should not be scrubbed with soap, as this cracks the enamel.

To remove iron rust from linen or cotton goods, boil a small quantity of rhubarb and dip in that portion of the material which is spotted.

A quickly-made glue which is very strong is made by rubbing a little piece of cold boiled potato on a sheet of paper with the fingers.

• • •

Oatmeal water is one of the simplest and most efficacious drinks it is possible to have for allaying thirst. Lemon juice improves the flavor.

• • •

Gilt frames can be revived by removing the dust and rubbing them with a piece of new bread. The rubbing must be lightly done or the gold will be rubbed off.

• • •

When the curtains will not draw easily, remove the rings and rub the pole thoroughly with paraffin. Replace the rings and they will slip along quite smoothly.

• • •

To pick up little pieces of broken glass, wet a woolen cloth, lay it on the floor where the fragments are and pat it. The little particles will adhere to the damp cloth.

Fish, before cooking, should always be washed in cold water, but not left in the water, or it will lose flavor and firmness.

To clean white paint, dip a damp cloth in fine oatmeal and rub the paint well over with this. Wipe quite clean, and then polish with a clean duster.

• • •

Mildew stains may be removed from leather articles quite easily if the part is rubbed with vaseline, then after a day or so, wiped with a soft, clean rag.

CHRISTINE

CHRISTINE, meaning Christian, comes from the Greek verb chrio, meaning to touch or anoint. In early times it was translated to signify the old Hebrew prophetic Messiah (the Anointed) and became the title for the Saviour, the very touchstone of faith.

Copyright by Harris & Ewing

The first person known to have been baptised under the title is St. Christina, a Roman virgin of patrician birth, martyred in 295. Tradition declares that she was thrown into Lake Bolsena with a millstone around her neck, but it floated to the surface supported by angels and she was finally shot to death with arrows.

Naturally she became a patroness of Bolsena and of the Venetian States, where Christina is a popular feminine name.

Her fame traveled through Greece and Hungary and was brought from the latter country to England and Scotland by the Atheling family in the person of Christina, Abbess of Romsey. The Scotch promptly abbreviated the name to Kirstin. Germany preserved the original Christina, but has several diminutives, among them Stine and Tine.

Through John Bunyan's Christiana as the feminine of the allegorical hero of "Pilgrim's Progress," this form became popular in England. Christine is Kirste or Kirstine throughout Scandinavia. Chrissie, Xina, Christiana and Christina are English favorites. France favors Christine only, and Italy calls her Cristina. In Germany she is Christiane and Kristel. Portugal has an odd form: Christinha.

Christine's talismanic jewel is jade, whose potency for good fortune and health are limitless. It is a sacred stone to the Chinese, who believe that all good things come to her who wears it and evil can have no power over her. Given to a newly-married couple, it is said to assure the birth of an heir within the year. Christine's lucky day is Monday, and six is her lucky number.

Vegetables for Health

By Loretto C. Lynch

THE Child Wealth Bureau tells us that children throughout the United States in general do not have sufficient vegetables or milk in their diet for the good of their health. And it seems reasonable to suppose that the adults in the families to which these children belong do not have sufficient vegetables in their own diet.

And so a great movement has been started this year by people interested in health and foods to have folks think seriously about introducing more vegetables and milk into the average diet.

Vegetables help to keep the blood right. And milk not only builds the body, but it contains material which builds strong bones and makes people grow. And if some of our young ladies who give such serious consideration to their complexion that they are spending money they can ill afford for complexion beautifiers would realize what a delightful effect upon the complexion a liberal supply of vegetables in the diet has they would be buying more spinach and less rouge.

But the family usually depends upon the housewife to provide the food, and it is to her, therefore, that we must especially appeal The prejudice against canned vegetables is not well founded. American manufacturers are governed by strict laws to urge them to produce high-class products, but besides these laws they have established much more stringent rules of their own for producing high-class products.

As soon as a can of food is opened the contents should be immediately removed to a glass or china dish. Most canned foods are the better for having been allowed to reabsorb the air lost during the process of canning. And so, after the food has been removed to the dish, place it for several hours where it will be able to absorb fresh air. This airing greatly improves the flavor.

The water in canned spinach should be carefully drained from it and saved. This may be combined with thickened milk into a cream of spinach soup.

But if you still feel that you do not wish to use canned vegetables there is no good reason why your diet should be lacking in vegetables. For there are dried peas and beans and lentils. There are onions and carrots and lettuce and spinach in the markets.

Each locality has its own kind of vegetables and the thrifty housewife sees to it that vegetables other than potatoes are served at two of the three meals each day. It is unbelievable to see how children are utterly unacquainted with the most common vegetables and their preparation.

Out of a recent canvass of 500 school children more than three-fifths told me that they never had at home any other vegetable than potatoes. A large number told me that their dinner most every day consisted of bread and meat or bread and fish.

It is no argument against the use of milk in the diet that it is expensive. Milk and cheese and fish are much more expensive nourishment for a similar amount of money considered. The average person who has not studied foods believes milk to be a beverage for the relief of thirst, not realizing, perhaps, that just as soon as milk enters the body it is no longer a liquid but becomes solid food.

The Limit

One of the Dixon's greatest failings is his absentmindedness. The other morning he came out of his house, walked to the edge of the pavement and suddenly threw his right leg into the air with a vaulting movement. Of course he fell sprawling to the ground.

"Hello, Dixon, what are you doing?" cried a neighbor, who rushed to help him.

Dixon rose to his feet, brushing the dust off his clothing and rubbing his bruises.

"Oh, nothing!" he muttered sheepishly. "Only thought I was mounting my bicycle! I forgot I hadn't the beastly thing with me!"

A Strong Hint

John Bunton was certainly a steady man; he'd been steady all his life. But he was a bit too steady for Clara Hopkins.

They had been engaged to be married fifteen years, and still he had never asked her to name the happy day.

One evening John called in a romantic frame of mind and asked Clara to sing something tender and touching—something that would move him.

After a moment's thought she sat down at the piano and sang an old ballad, with meaning.

It was entitled "Darling, I Am Growing Old."

For Your Trousseau

Lucile, ever foremost in the world of fashions, has created several fascinating frocks that no Summer wardrobe should be without—least of all a trousseau. Delicious crisp organdies, puffy taffetas and lovely laces, not to mention hats that have captivated all the charm of Paris iself—all are found pictured in Harper's Bazar for May. Erte, too has contributed to a really lovely and unique collection of new and charming wedding gowns.

Child Almost Dead
Grandmother Saves Life

Roxbury, Mass. A grandmother in Roxbury writes: "I put great faith in your medicine, and one of my children was dying. The doctor said she could not live until morning, and I ran out to the drug store, got a bottle of Dr. True's Elixir, was so excited I gave her the half of the bottle at once, and at night I gave her the other half. I thought it's either kill or cure, for the doctor says she is dying anyway, but she did not die. She went to sleep, the first sleep for a week, and the next morning she passed two worms, red in color, six inches long. The doctor came to see if she was dead, but he ran out pretty quick, for she was sitting in her chair eating a bowl of oatmeal and milk. That was twenty-four years ago, and now she has a baby girl of her own, seven months old, who is also using Dr. True's Elixir." (Name on Request.)

Constipation, headache, tired feeling, weakness, spots before the eyes, bad breath, sleeplessness, irritability, dizziness and many other signs of sickness can be relieved if you take the prescription known as Dr. True's Elixir, The Family Laxative and Worm Expeller. It has done much for sick people, men, women and children, ever since 1851—over 68 years' reputation.

Take Dr. True's Elixir—give it to your children—The Family Laxative and Worm Expeller. AT ALL DEALERS. Dr. J. F. True & Co., Auburn, Me.

PAINFUL RASH ALL OVER BABY

In Ugly Pimples. Very Restless. Cuticura Heals.

"An eruption like eczema started on baby's face, and went all over his body even to his head, causing much pain. The rash first appeared in little ugly pimples and baby was very restless, crying the greater part of the time.

"I then got a free sample of Cuticura Soap. I could see an improvement so I bought one cake of Soap and one box of Ointment, and in ten days he was healed." (Signed) Mrs. Elizabeth Menz, 33 Marcella St., Roxbury, Mass., July 15, 1919.

HERO STOLE TO SAVE FRIEND

Canadian Captain, Admitting Theft of Bonds, Wins Court's Sympathy

New York, May 1.—Admitting that to save from imprisonment and disgrace the man who had saved his life on a French battlefield, he had stolen $4,200 worth of Liberty Bonds from the National Bank of Commerce, where he had worked at $100 a month since his discharge from the British army, Captain Russell Holmes Fletcher, twenty-seven, his breast decorated with a British medal for bravery, faced Judge Rosalsky in General Sessions.

The prisoner, a tall, handsome, intelligent Canadian, who had sacrificed his own career for that of a friend, elicited murmurs of deep sympathy from courtroom spectators when he said, in reply to a question by Judge Rosalsky:

"A friend with whom I served in the army and who saved my life on the battlefield came to me one day in the bank and told me that unless he could get $3,000 he would be sent to jail and disgraced for life. I took the $4,200 in Liberty bonds and gave them to him. He got $3,500 for them and fled to Europe."

"Your splendid military record has saved you from a long prison term," said Judge Rosalsky to the prisoner. "Banks and similar institutions, as well as society, must be protected from thieves. If restitution is made I will make a personal appeal to Governor Smith for your pardon."

He sentenced Captain Fletcher to one year in the Elmira Reformatory.

U. S. CONSUL IN FRANCE RETURNS TO WORCESTER

Worcester, May 1.—After fourteen years' absence from his native city, Eugene L. Belisle, who left Worcester in 1906 to take up his duties as American consul at Lamoges, France, to which he was appointed by the late Theodore Roosevelt, is returning here for a visit. He may give up his diplomatic post, according to local report, and enter the newspaper field. He is one of the principal stockholders in L'Opinion Publique, a leading French newspaper published here.

March in Rent Parade and Win Prize

These shoes, given by Howe's Shoe Store, and the baby carriage, the gift of the Ferdinand Furniture Store, both of Roxbury, will be awarded to lucky ticket holders in the rent parade Monday evening.

Massachusetts Legislature, and Mayor Andrew J. Peters, have been invited to review the parade from the steps of the State House.

Some of the legislators don't believe the public demand remedial legislation to solve the rent profiteering problem. It's up to every rent payer of Greater Boston to march in the parade and show these gentlemen that the public not only wants but insists on the present General Court enacting remedial laws before it adjourns.

Stone's Military Band will head the parade, preceded by the mounted police. The parade will march through Arlington street to Boylston street, to Tremont street, to Park street, to Beacon street, to Tremont street, to Tremont Temple.

An appeal to all ex-service men of Greater Boston to march in Monday's parade was issued by Sergeant-Major George H. Lawson. All organizations of world war veterans are urged to be present 100 per cent. in this protest aimed at influencing the Legislature to pass a bill to relieve the rent situation.

Several hundred World War veterans have announced they will march to show their interest in this vital problem, and it is expected that before the parade starts this number will be swelled tenfold.

Organizations and individuals in all parts of the city and suburbs have announced their intention of joining in the parade, including a number of Italian organizations from the North End, and some 500 members of the Revere branch of the Boston American Tenants' League.

All individuals and organizations must arrange to be at the starting point fifteen minutes before seven. Marchers will form four abreast. Individual women marchers are requested to form on the left hand side of Beacon street, individual men marchers on the right. Those in charge of organizations will report to those in charge of the parade.

Following the parade will come the big mass meeting in Tremont Temple, at which John J. Martin, vice-president of the Massachusetts Real Estate Exchange, will preside.

GOVERNOR MAY SPEAK.

James B. Gannon, commissioner of revenue and finance of Jersey City, who organized and carried through the now famous "Gannon plan," through which in two months his city was rid of real estate jugglers and rent profiteers, has consented to speak for the first time outside of Jersey City on this important subject. He will explain his plan, tell how it worked out, and how it might be applied to Boston.

Representative Martin Hays of Brighton, who framed the rent bill now before the Legislature, and who has devoted his energy and time to endeavoring to get remedial legislation to solve the rent problem for every rent payer in the Commonwealth, will speak.

Governor Coolidge, Mayor Peters and other prominent men have been invited to address this big meeting and tell what they think of remedies for present conditions.

It will be one of the most extraordinary demonstrations ever given in Boston, and one in which every rent payer owes it to himself or herself and to the community to take part.

As an indication of the tremendous interest being taken in the subject of fair rentals and in the activities of the Boston American Tenants' League, there is the big mass meeting to be held in Tremont Temple tomorrow at noon by the Tremont Temple Brotherhood.

GET IN LINE NOW!

The Tremont Temple Brotherhood, of which Dr. David M. Lockrow is in charge, is the largest Protestant brotherhood in the country. The very fact that this religious organization is holding a mass meeting to discuss the rent question and that Representative Martin Hays of Brighton will be the speaker, show that every patriotic and public spirited body in the Commonwealth should follow suit by participating in this campaign, through which the rent payers may obtain relief.

Never before has a public question been of such vital interest to every man, woman and child of the Commonwealth. All parties, all sects, have unanimously expressed the hope that the rent problem will be speedily settled, and relief given to the suffering public, while the fair landlords are assured of a square deal.

The big parade and mass meeting of the Boston American Tenants' League affords a chance for everyone to participate and do his or her bit. It costs nothing. Its results will speak for themselves.

Get in line!

Formation and Route of Rent Parade

Rent Payers' Parade, Monday, May 3.

Forms at Beacon and Arlington streets at 6:45. Starts promptly at 7 o'clock. Individuals will form four abreast, women on the left, men on the right of Beacon street. Heads of organizations will report to the General Secretary upon their arrival.

Route—Arlington to Bolyston, to Tremont, to Park, to Beacon, to Tremont, to Tremont Temple.

Mass meeting at Tremont Temple. Begins promptly at 8 o'clock. Pres. John J. Martin, vice president Massachusetts Real Estate Exchange, presiding; Commissioner Gannon of Jersey City, Representative Hays and other speakers.

When the hall is filled an overflow meeting will be held at the Parkman Bandstand, Boston Common. Same speakers.

WOMEN'S GOLF SKIRTS DAZZLE PLAYERS' EYES

London, May 1.—English golfers complain that this season women are putting them off their game by wearing "dazzling" golf skirts.

Harmonious tweeds have been replaced by women golfers with futurist frocks, gaudy jumpers and gorgeous leather hats, the whole color scheme being such as to prevent men keeping their "eye on the ball."

GRAFTON'S FIRE FIGHTERS RESIGN IN A BODY

Grafton, May 1.—The town of Grafton is without fire protection. At a meeting both the Grafton Hook and Ladder Company and the Rescue Hose Company No. 1 voted to disband rather than serve under the new board of fire engineers, who went into office today. At a recent meeting of the Board of Selectmen all the old board of engineers were thrown out of office and a new board appointed.

GOLD COIN IS SCARCE: MINT WORKS 24 HOURS

Washington, May 1.—The stock of gold coin has become so depleted that it is necessary to put the Philadelphia mint on a 24-hour working basis to catch up with the demand, R. T. Baker, director of the mint, notified Congress. He seeks an emergency appropriation of $80,000 to cover necessary expenditures.

THREE HOOKWORM CASES AT DEVENS

Three men of the regular army troops stationed at Camp Devens have developed well defined cases of hookworm disease and are confined to the camp hospital for treatment and observation.

None of the three men afflicted was born or has seen service in tropical countries where the hookworm malady is supposed to originate.

"POILUS" TO BE ALLOWED TO HAVE CLEAN FACES

Paris, May 1.—Poilu, "the Hairy One," will no longer be the nickname of the French private soldier.

Following the lead of the American army, the French War Department has issued an order permitting soldiers to be smooth shaven. In many regiments mustaches formerly were obligatory.

TAME TRADING IN BOSTON

Price Irregularity Prevails on Both the Senior and the Curb Exchanges

The Boston market was irregular all day and somewhat narrow in all respects, failing to weaken as much as New York when the movement was downward there or to rally like the latter in late trading. It was dull, to. Transactions here aggregated about 20,000 shares, or the least for any session of the week. North Butte led in activity, and the only other stocks in which the turnover exceeded a thousand shares were Utah Metals, Ventura and Connor Co. There was nothing about trading to excite any interest. It was a tame, colorless market from start to finish. Not enough was done in any class of stocks to determine group trend unless packing issues could be called weak. Rails, coppers and auto accessories were all somnolent.

BETTER TONE AT CLOSE.

While there was no rally in late trading, the tone at the close seemed improved. Money remained as firm as ever, with funds too scarce to make quotations much more than nominal. Call money in New York opened at a parity with the Boston rate of 8 per cent. but was up to 15 in the last hour. It is reported that Western banks have been withdrawing funds from New York all the week. May 1 requirements are another factor in tightening rates.

New Haven and Agricultural Chemical were the only stocks to close with a point gain. Issues which had receded from one to two points included American Telephone, which sold at a new low for the year; Massachusetts Gas, Eastern Steamship, U. S. Smelting, Edison, Stewart, Swift & Co. and New River preferred.

DULL ON THE CURB.

While the Curb market showed a little life at the opening, it soon became dull and stayed so. Out of a total of 107,600 shares for the whole list, trading in Boston & Montana accounted for nearly 59,000. This issue was strong after the start, closing with a gain of eight cents. The leaders were about evenly balanced as to gains and losses. High-priced oils ruled weak and silvers of all degree were irregular.

Gains included United Verde Extension ¼, Canada-Mex ½, Yukon 1-16, Arizona Silver, which sold ex-dividend, 2 cents, Consolidated Arizona 25 cents, and Midway 17 cents.

Among declines were White Oil ½, Gilliland 1, Iron Cap 1, Chief ⅛, Ophir 3 cents, Texana 3 cents, and Mutual Trust 2 cents.

BOSTON FINANCIAL NOTES.

Greenfield Tap & Die Corporation directors meet on Monday and in the financial district the declaration of a stock dividend on common is expected. This accounts in part for the strength of this issue this week.

The firm of Tucker, Hayes & Bartholomew dissolved today by mutual consent. Bartlett H. Hayes retires and the business will be conducted hereafter by Tucker, Bartholomew & Co. The new firm comprises Herbert A. Tucker, William F. Bartholomew and John Everett Holbrook.

The Ballardvale Pure Food Co. has been incorporated in Massachusetts by United Drug interests. It is capitalized at $5,000,000 and will manufacture and deal in food products.

The 100 per cent. stock dividend by the Art Metal Construction Co. is payable June 16 to stock of record June 5.

It is stated that the Edith Mae view on the 3,400 level at the North Butte property now shows a width of 7½ feet, averaging from 2 to 7 per cent. copper, and from 1 to 5 ounces of silver to the ton.

New Massachusetts corporations include the Advance Furnace & Engineering Co., Springfield, capital $200,000; O'Hara Bros. Co. Inc., Boston, capital $300,000; American Shoe Manufacturing Co., Boston, capital $300,000; Carragher Demountable Rim Co., Fall River, capital $350,000; Income Service Co., Boston, capital $100,000.

HOMESTEADERS HAVE CHANCE TO SAVE $100

Washington, May 1.—Powers of attorney given by land settlers on public lands granted to railroads for the collection of a portion of the commutation fees on these homesteads, are revocable, according to an opinion rendered by Lawrence Decker, solicitor of the Treasury, at the request of Representative Young of North Dakota. Young says that if the homesteaders who have granted such powers of attorney revoke them immediately they can save about $100 each.

HARDING'S PLURALITY IN OHIO NOW 16,333

Columbus, O., May 1.—That U. S. Senator Harding's plurality in the presidential preference is 16,333 and that Ohio's delegation to the Republican national convention will be made of thirty-nine Harding delegates and nine Wood delegates, are the indications here based upon complete unofficial returns from all of Ohio's 5,882 precincts.

These returns, which were gathered and tabulated outside the Secretary of State's office, give: Harding, 125,561; Wood, 109,258.

DUBLIN REFUSES TO PAY LEVY FOR POLICE DEATHS

Dublin, May 1.—The city of Dublin formally refused to pay the $263,000 levied as compensation for the killing and wounding of police in recent months. As a reprisal for this defiance, the castle government is expected to suspend the payment of education grants.

R. R. LABOR BOARD IN NEED OF $450,000

Washington, D. C., May 1.—An appropriation of $50,000 until June 30 next and of $400,000 for the next fiscal year is needed by the Railroad Labor Board to make its required investigations, R. D. Barton, chairman of the board, today reported to Congress.

DOCK STRIKERS BACK; LOSE FIGHT FOR RAISE

With the return to work of nearly 1,000 longshoremen employed at the docks of the Savannah and Clyde lines, their strike for an increase in wages was brought to an unsuccessful conclusion. The strike-breakers engaged at these docks have been discharged.

DYNAMITER HORNE IS GOING INSANE

Fredericton, N. B., May 1.—Penitentiary officials report that Werner Horne, ex-German army officer, serving a ten-year term for attempting to dynamite the international bridge at St. Croix, is becoming insane as the result of his imprisonment.

Credit Situation Strained and Prices Abnormal

Among vital matters now under consideration by bankers, merchants and manufacturers are the necessity of increased production, of obviating credit difficulties, of remedying the strike evil and of reducing abnormal prices to the sane plane of reasonable profit. Views by great institutions and eminent financiers follow:

Greater Production a National Obligation

The Guaranty Trust Company of New York says the extent of the margin upon which the business of this country is being transacted today was well illustrated by the immediateness and intensity of the effects of the recent railroad strike.

"It is estimated," a communication from this great bank to the Boston American states, "that a million men were thrown out of work, either by their own choice or as the result of the crippling of transportation, and in the present shortage of the labor element in production that additional burden upon those who continue to provide food and clothing, for strikers as well as workers, had telling effects. Not only did prices for obtainable goods rise rapidly, but in many instances materials were completely shut off from manufacturers and distributors, thus extending the area of industrial depression and further aggravating the conditions against which the strike purported to be a protest. The significant fact is that there were apparently no reserves on hand which would have enabled production enterprises to bridge over the interval of disturbance. When one element of the great industrial machinery of the country failed to function, all others were seriously affected.

"The strike is but another illustration of the primary obligation resting upon the country to produce more of the essential things. There are indications that this is beginning to be sensed in a way that will affect results. Protests are appearing with greater frequency against the continuance of those enterprises which minister to the comparatively small proportion of the population whom the war has enabled to indulge themselves in reckless expenditures and in favor of those which will put the country's business on a sounder and safer basis."

Proletariat Giving No Heed to the Morrow

In reviewing the labor situation, strained credits, inadequate transportation and high taxation, W. L. Hensley, of E. W. Wagner & Co., regarded on Wall Street as an observer with acumen, says that while there is a distinct tendency toward ultra-conservatism in general business throughout the country, there is a strong feeling that the crest of the wave of high prices for materials and commodities has not been reached. He says:

"The slogan of thrift and economy has had a far reaching effect upon the middle classes, but the proletariat apparently have no thought of a rainy day. There is apparently no immediate prospect of improvement in railroad transportation difficulties or in the credit situation, which is severely strained. There seems to be a general disposition in banking, financial and general business circles to proceed along the lines of least resistance.

"There is no incentive for ambitious business undertakings because of four obstacles, viz.: Labor unrest, strained credit situation, inadequate railroad transportation and burdensome taxes. Mr. Gompers today prophesied that labor unrest will be a thing of the past in the not distant future. Undoubtedly the turning of May 1 without serious disturbances will enhearten the whole country.

"Positive improvement in railroad transportation will probably be slow. The railroads are badly crippled because of lack of equipment and inadequate man power. It is estimated that if the railroads were brought up to 100 per cent efficiency they would require locomotives and freight car sufficient to keep the equipment companies running to full capacity for more than a year.

"Summarizing the adverse factors that now beset the business of the country the outlook is not in the least encouraging. Added to this is a crop outlook which is far below requirements. Some authorities assert that the country is facing the biggest food shortage ever known. Despite this array of depressing factors there is no sign of great apprehension. People in important places have adopted a plan of 'watchful waiting.'"

Suggested Remedies for Abnormal Conditions

One main reason why retail profiteering, large and small, is so rampant, say J. S. Bache & Co., one of the most important houses in the financial district of New York, is the disregard of the price level by the public—a willingness to pay whatever is asked.

"It is encouraging to note some reaction from this attitude, and this, after all, is the most important deduction from the overall and other similar movements—namely, that the American public is awaking from its torpor as to extortionate prices, will no longer stand for them, and will take drastic means, if necessary, so that it need not.

"The public is not yet organized, but it is aroused. It showed its teeth in the railroad strike. It refused to be starved. It put itself into harness to run trains, and it demonstrated that fuel and food by motor truck could be furnished in sufficient amount to avoid danger. This spirit of public defence in case of emergencies is to be organized. The Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York, at a special meeting this week, appointed a committee on public welfare to organize the people to protect the public interest in case of future strikes. Three hundred and fifty prominent business men pledged themselves to support the plan. The committee has in charge the perfecting of a plan whereby the public may, by volunteer service, aid in maintaining the transportation of passengers, food and fuel, and in assisting the duly constituted authorities in preserving law and order.

"The denim or overall movement is another indication that the public is aroused; in this instance, against the high cost of clothing and as a protest against profiteering of the manufacturer and the merchant. Old-clothes clubs are also being formed. If these movements become widely extended, as they bid fair to be, they will tend to reduce the price of expensive goods by reducing the demand for them.

"If the sentiment for saving becomes widespread enough, the example set may be beneficial in developing among high-wage earners less desire to buy extravagant things. By releasing labor from the manufacture of luxuries, larger man-force will be available in the production of necessities."

United Fruit Company a Unique Sugar Producer

It is only recently that the United Fruit Co. has been considered as sugar producer. But the scarcity and high price of that important food has given this corporation prominence in the public mind from a new angle. Hayden, Stone & Co., say:

"United Fruit is highly unique among the large Cuban sugar producers, in that 100 per cent. of its cane is 'administration cane.' The company has never had the colonos system, and this year its complete ownership in its cane will confer a most abnormal earning power on the company. The policy of United Fruit is to refine as much of its raw sugar as possible at its own Revere Refinery, which with a capacity of 3,000 barrels per day, could take care of its entire crop of raw. Due to adherence to this policy United Fruit has been very conservative in selling its 1920 crop. Only two cargoes have been sold to outsiders, and of the crop so far ground 20 per cent. is still unsold. United Fruit stands to reap the benefit of 18-cent sugar on probably 60 to 65 per cent. of its 1920 crop, a most unusual selling position and one not duplicated by any other large Cuban producer. From sugar alone there is a strong probability that the company will earn this year a sum equal to $10 per share before taxes."

Electric Industries Are on a Sure Foundation

In point of steadiness and earning power and consistency of growth, no business rests upon a more secure foundation than the electric power and light industry, says E. D. Diefenbach of Bonbright & Co., Incorporater. He states:

"In this classification traction properties are not included, although many power and light companies operate a small per cent. of traction properties. In spite of large increases in both gross and net earnings, the securities of power companies have been carried down in price until today some unusual bargains are available.

"New issues of industrial bonds and notes are selling at relatively much higher prices and at a time when their earnings seem to be at the highest point, whereas most of the securities of electric power and light companies are selling at prices much below those warranted by their constantly increasing earnings and their steady earning power during periods of industrial depression.

"Considered as a manufactured product electricty is fast assuming a foremost position in this country. In 1907 the ratio of the value of electricty generated to the value of all manufactories was about 7 per cent. while in 1919 this ratio had increased to about 17 per cent. Few other industries can show anything like such a remarkable growth. This growth has been coincident with the discovery of further uses for electric power and lighting.

"Reviewing the progress made in a short twenty years, we have seen the steam turbine and electric generator which formerly derived most of their earnings from electric lighting and power to street railways develop large central station power plants, supplying power to every class of industry. This development, through the use of larger electrical generating units, has resulted in a reduction in the average cost per kilowatt hour of electricity to the consumer of from about 3 cents per kilowatt hour in 1907 to 2 cents per kilowatt hour in 1919 or 33 per cent.

"This reduction in the cost of power is resulting in the gradual elimination of private power plants and the addition of many new uses for electric current in order to save labor and fuel, and to produce a better grade of manufactured products."

Corporation Earnings

For 1919 the William Cramp & Sons Ship & Engine Building Co. shows surplus after charges and Federal taxes of $2,104,562, equivalent to $34.51 a share on $6,098,500 stock, against $1,807,405 or $29.63 a share in 1918.

The net earnings of the National Acme Co. for the quarter ending March 31, before allowance for estimated Federal income taxes, were $1,661,641. This compares with $756,630 for the first 1919 quarter.

The Mount Vernon-Woodberry Mills, Inc., report for last year net profit from sales of $1,948,651; other income $118,019; gross income $2,066,740; deductions from income $1,204,188; net income $862,551; preferred dividends $427,644; surplus for the year $434,907; surplus Jan. 1, 1919, $3,084,251; surplus Dec. 31, 1919, $3,519,159.

The Virginia Iron, Coal, & Coke Co. reports for the 1920 March quarter gross earnings of $727,531 and net earnings of $564,964.

For 1919 the Fisk Rubber Co. reports net profits of $4,956,684 against $3,760,279 in previous year and a surplus after preferred dividends of $3,901,196 compared with $2,813,520.

For March, 1920, quarter the Studebaker Corporation and its subsidiary companies made net profits of $5,272,092 before taxes. After reserve of $800,000 for Federal taxes, the final net figures were $4,472,092. This exceeds by 16 per cent. the best previous quarter. Earnings for the first quarter of 1919 before taxes were $1,146,702.

AT THE THEATRES

MODERN AND BEACON

The new Dorothy Dalton picture, "The Dark Mirror," which is coming to the Modern and Beacon Theatres, commencing Monday, is declared to be most unusual and absorbing in theme. It was adapted from Louis Joseph Vance's well-known novel of the same name and is a Thomas H. Ince production.

Miss Dalton has a dual role, playing two sharply contrasted types.

J. Warren Kerrigan's sixth Robert Brunton production, "The Dream Cheater," a W. W. Hodkinson release, will be another feature of the program. The play is founded on the absorbing French classic, "Peau de Chagrin," or "The Magic Skin," by Honore de Balzac.

The star is aided by the wholesome refining influence of a young girl delightfully portrayed by Fritzi Brunette.

In the cast beside Miss Brunette are Sam Southern, Wedgewood Nowell, Alice Wilson, Joseph J. Dowling, Thomas H. Guise and Aggie Herring. Ernest C. Warde directed.

GORDON'S OLYMPIA

Nazimova, the screen's greatest actress, comes to the Gordon's Olympia beginning Monday in a picturization of Frank Danby's most celebrated novel, "The Heart of a Child."

There is in "The Heart of a Child" a gorgeousness of pictorial beauty. The early tenement street scenes are done with amazing fidelity to detail.

In support of Nazimova in "The Heart of a Child" is a cast of exceptional brilliancy.

The Olympia News Weekly, a new comedy and give all-star vaudeville comedy and five all-star vaudeville acts complete the bill.

UPHAM'S CORNER STRAND

The leading connoissieurs of fashions have recognized Miss Elsie Ferguson's artistic taste in clothes as the best dressed American actress. In "His House in Order," her latest Paramount Artcraft picture which will be shown at the Uphams Corner Strand beginning Monday for three days, she wears many splendid gowns, all of which will be admired by her feminine admirers.

Arthur J. Martel will render special selections on the organ. As an added attraction the screamingly funny picture about prohibition called "The Six Best Cellars" starring Bryant Washburn, the Strand News and a short comedy complete the bill.

RELAY HOUSE

The noted Relay House at Bass Point, Nahant, "the inn which made fish famous," begins its sixtieth season May 15, under Manager Nat Brann, who has been identified with this hostelry for many years. Under Mr. Brann's direction many innovations have been made for the coming season, without in any way interfering with the features which have made the Relay House one of the best-known eating places of the North Shore.

WARDHURST

"Wardhurst," the beautiful dining palace conducted by "Hap Ward" in Lynnfield, has opened for the season, and the large number of discerning diners which seek this exclusive retreat daily proves that the season for motoring out for dinner and dancing has already begun.

BRAINTREE KNIGHTS TO HOLD DANSANT

The first annual pop concert and dansant of the Braintree Council 1482, K. of C., will be held in the Town Hall on Monday evening. Plans for an extensive musical program including instrumental specialties, character sketches and cabaret numbers by professional artists have been completed by the committee in charge. Dancing will follow the entertainment.

WANTS FEDERAL RESERVE TO BAR ALL SPECULATORS

Washington, D. C., May 1.—"Unless the Federal Reserve Board stops financing speculators and hoarders of foodstuffs and other necessities of life, Congress should pass an act prohibiting the further issuance of Federal reserve notes," Representative King of Illinois said in urging an investigation of the board by the House Rules Committee.

MEASURES THAT WOULD CURE MOST OF THE TROUBLES AND TENDENCIES WHICH DISTRESS AND ALARM US TODAY

(1) To nominate for the Presidency by direct nomination and to elect by popular vote.
(2) To elect the Cabinet officers and make them responsible to Congress.
(3) To deprive the President of the power of patronage; to put all public offices as nearly as possible under Civil Service, and have appointments made by a committee of Congress.
(4) To elect Federal Judges, including the Supreme Court Justices, by popular vote.
(5) To apply the Initiative, the Referendum and the Recall to national matters.

Intelligent Retrenchment a National Necessity

Lord Rothermere warns Britain of bankruptcy and says that unless the government retrenches the nation will collapse.

This country is by no means in as bad a condition as England, but it is probably true here that unless the government retrenches the nation will be projected into some serious economic difficulties.

It is very important in the coming election to elect a party pledged to intelligent retrenchment.

It seems impossible for the Democratic party to get away from war-time extravagance and recklessness. The evil of this is twofold. It not only wastes the public money, maintains taxation and threatens economic complications, but it prevents legitimate expenditures being made for proper and essential matters, such as the maintenance of an adequate navy, the proper pay of naval men, the rightful reward of our returned soldiers, and such important purposes.

The government is constantly explaining that it has no money for aviation, for the naval program, for the proper pay of public employes, for the care of soldiers and other vital matters, and yet it allows money to leak out in all sorts of non-essentials and continues to burden and handicap the nation with heavy taxation.

If any private business were in such a condition a new management would be put in charge of it, and unquestionably a new management with the interests at heart of the stockholders, namely, the citizens, should be put in charge of the people's government.

Practically, that is what our America is—a big joint stock company, with one hundred million stockholders.

Some day we will use the good judgment to separate the political and the business affairs of the country and apply business methods instead of political methods to our business problems.

The habit we have of electing professional politicians, most of them conspicuously incompetent in private business, to control the revenues and expenditures of this large corporation called the United States is simply a stupid habit.

Do you suppose that the Standard Oil corporation or the Pennsylvania Railroad corporation would elect a board of directors and general managers from the ranks of professional political job hunters?

And yet we do that very thing in the infinitely greater corporation in which we all have stock.

The business affairs of the government should be taken from the hands of the political accidents in the White House, the Congress and the Cabinet and put under the control of business managers, holding their jobs by merit and efficiency, and responsible to the country, not to politicians or parties.

But, in the meantime, while waiting for a more sensible system, the politicians in Washington should be made to understand that the period of extravagance inaugurated during the war hysteria has run too long and that another six-billion-dollar Congress will bring on a panic that will shake the country.

"Retrench" is the word that should be burned into every Congressman's consciousness, and if nothing else will impress that word, why we must organize a People's party that WILL make Congress understand that the nation has reached the limit of its patience with war lunacy and war wastefulness.

Conscripted Blacks to Fight Future Wars of France?

Property ownership of black men by white long ago became unfashionable, but the military party in France seems bent on reviving it, not for personal gains, but for national glory and power.

Just before the armistice was signed France had 700,000 black troops in uniform and 238,000 black laborers working behind the lines.

A small proportion of these were men enjoying the status of free citizens and owing equal obligation to the State. But the majority were unwilling conscripts, recruited by bribery of native chiefs or by force. They fought not as citizens, but as serfs. Writing in the Freeman of April 28, E. D. Morel informs us that:

> On July 30, 1919, military conscription was decreed for all natives throughout French West Africa and French Equatorial Africa, an area over 2,000,000 square miles and containing nearly 20,000,000 natives.
> A decree of December 12, 1919, fixed conscription in Madagascar, area 228,000 square miles; population more than 3,000,000.

By 1922 the French militarists expect to have a standing army in France of 200,000 black soldiers, half of them primitive Africans. In time millions of other black troops will be in reserve. Will this great force be used solely for defence, as it should be, or by the French imperialists for aggression?

Light on Cost of Your Suit

There was published the other day a statement from a wool expert that the cost of the wool which goes into the ordinary man's suit had increased only $4.74 in the five years that prices have been advancing, while the cost of the finished suit had increased ten times that amount.

The American Woolen Company, which has just published its annual statement showing earnings of $40 a share on the common stock, as compared with $14 for the previous year, may have accounted for some of the difference and given a part of the real reason why denim is just at the moment more popular than broadcloth.

In Desolate Space
A Queer Candidate—
Nobody Financing Him
Switzerland, Clear Headed

By Arthur Brisbane

Copyright, 1920.

Some men in Sing Sing prison had eaten, as they supposed, their last meal—choosing ham and eggs with coffee, as for mysterious reasons condemned Americans usually do.

Each was dressed in a nice new black suit for the electric chair, one leg of the trousers slit from the knee down to permit application of the wet electrode to the calf of the leg. One of the four is a half idiot, and went along to help kill, as he would have gone along to help save. At the last hour they were reprieved. They may go to prison for life or again have a last meal of ham and eggs and put on the black suit.

What would have happened to them, after each left the electric chair and the black suit with the slit trousers, shot into mysterious eternity by mysterious electricity?

Would they have gone into other bodies, with skulls better shaped to do better work? Would they have remained in the grave waiting for Gabriel to blow his trumpet and call them up to another trial? Or would they meet, like Thomas Bailey Aldrich's two dead men that come to mind whenever you read of electrocutions?

Somewhere in desolate, wind-swept space—
In twilight land—no man's land—
Two hurrying shapes met face to face,
And bade each other stand.
"And who are you?" cried one
a-gape,
Shuddering in the gloaming light,
"I know not," said the second shape,
"I died last night."

Men with too much money, disliking Johnson because they don't own him, ask: "Who is financing him?"

The interesting thing about Johnson, the thing that makes him intensely unpopular, is the fact that nobody is financing him.

At the primaries in Illinois his name did not appear on the ballot, but 53,000 citizens took the trouble to write in his name, each on his own ballot. Nobody gave one dollar or two dollars apiece to those 53,000 Americans.

You can't sell a horse if the farmer knows that it is impossible to put a bridle on its head. You can't hand a presidential candidate to organized capital if it suspects, as it does in Johnson's case, it won't be able to put a bridle on him.

To pay soldiers a bonus, you must get the money. It is suggested now that an extra tax be put on tobacco. The mass of the population, including the soldiers, would pay the tax—for the man with a hundred million dollars can't possibly smoke a million dollars' worth of cigarettes. That's a helpful suggestion: "Put the taxes where it won't hurt the big fellow."

Another suggestion, one that has earnest support, is that some way be found to avoid giving money to the soldiers at all.

There was loud applause in the United States Chamber of Commerce when a resolution denounced the bonus for all the soldiers and suggested instead "generous treatment for all disabled and sick."

How would it do to give each of the very sick a prayer book, to cost not more than 25 cents, and give thanks to the others?

Clear-headed Switzerland has developed a plan that Mr. Rosenbaum, Chicago, student of foreign corporations, says will take many American corporations and good dollars to Switzerland.

Briefly, the scheme is, while taxing home corporations of Switzerland heavily, to allow holding corportaios nfrom foreign countries to come there and pay only one-third of the usual tax.

Thus our corporations will find in Europe a happy land of safety such as they find in certain American states, and used to find in New Jersey in the old days.

Mr. Markham, president of the Illinois Central Railroad, clear-headed citizen where railroad interests are not concerned—"fears that government ownership of railroads would be a first step toward socialized industry." He says that if private ownership of railroads is on trial, the same is true of all American institutions.

Not accurate. Private individuals couldn't or wouldn't carry mails honestly and cheaply. So the government did it. That didn't mean that government intended to give music lessons or teach shorthand.

(Reprinted from the New York Evening Journal of April 30, 1920.)

What Do You Think This Newspaper Costs to Make?

A Difference of Many Millions Between THE Biggest Newspaper and the Little Fellows.

Copyright, 1920, by Star Company.

You are disappointed, perhaps, that it should be necessary to increase the price of the Evening Journal. So are we, that work to produce it and have spent the best working years of our lives helping to create it,

Consider one item—the cost of white paper. It is a matter of which readers as a rule know nothing, and of which other newspapers know little—they do not require MUCH paper.

White paper on which the Evening Journal is printed used to cost two and a half cents a pound. It costs today as much as twelve and a half cents a pound.

To print this newspaper we use in a year FIFTY THOUSAND TONS OF WHITE PAPER.

That means ONE HUNDRED MILLION POUNDS OF PAPER A YEAR. The difference in cost for that paper, at twelve and a half cents as compared with two and a half cents, would be TEN MILLION DOLLARS A YEAR.

Little newspapers that do not need or use any white paper worth speaking of care little what the price of paper may be. A newspaper like the Evening Journal, which spends millions for the news of all the world, the best features in the world, and the largest evening circulation in the world, has problems of which the little newspaper knows nothing. It takes more to run the Leviathan than to a run a two-oared ferryboat.

Every third newspaper sold in New York is an Evening Journal. Its circulation is twenty-five times greater than that of some small competitors. It pays to individual writers and artists more than some papers pay for their entire editorial staff.

Seven millions were spent by the owner of this newspaper, making it what it is, before the paper paid any return on that large investment. You who have read The Evening Journal for years can testify that from the beginning it has used its columns, as well as spending its money, for its readers, and for them only.

An increased cost of millions a year for white paper can be met only, as readers will understand, by an increased price for the article of which the cost has increased.

It would be financially impossible, however good the will or great the desire, to endure permanently a deficit running into so many millions a year. Every other expense has increased, as the cost of paper has increased. And an increase in price, with conditions unchanged, was inevitable.

You are sorry for it; so are we. You will find, as we do, comfort in the fact that newsboys make, in profit, fifty per cent. more on each paper than they did before. You may also, if you choose, find consolation in the fact that in former days, selling at two cents, The Evening Journal was, from the financial point of view, infinitely more profitable than today, selling at three cents.

We sell you features, news, and millions of dollars' worth of white paper yearly. The white paper is the great item. It has doubled, trebled, quadrupled in price, as your government reports tell you.

To take a homely example: You bought sugar once for five or six cents a pound. It costs now more than twenty cents at WHOLESALE. It cannot any longer be RETAILED at six cents. It is not possible, except on a basis of charity or reduced excellence, which readers don't want, to retail white paper at the price charged before its cost was multiplied by four.

'Eliminate Food Gambler,' Says Congressman

"ELIMINATE the food gambler," says Congressman John M. Baer of North Dakota in a smashing article written for tomorrow's Boston Sunday Advertiser.

Congressman Baer, famous as a cartoonist, has drawn to accompany this article a powerful cartoon which shows graphically, among other things, why a quart of beans jumps fifteen cents in price in its course from the producer to the consumer.

The Congressman, author of a bill to prohibit gambling in the necessaries of life, says:

"Life at its best is a gamble, but those things which sustain life should never be the stakes of a gambler's game.

"The public will not tolerate crap-shootig, faro dealing, poker playing, crap shooting, bookmaking or shell games, but gambling in the most vital and essential things—the necessaries of life—is tolerated.

"Extortionate prices are fixed on you and me by drones. Honest business must unite with the consumer to stop this menace."

"A slump in prices is coming," declares Roger W. Babson of Wellesley, the noted statistical expert.

Commodities will drop before wages and prices will tend steadily downward, he asserts. Even the present large amount of currency and credit cannot keep figures at the peak, Mr. Babson says.

Although pre-war price levels may not be reached for several years there is relief in sight, he finds in giving the results of an analytical study of present conditions and tendencies.

Wartime lessons in saving, in thrift, have been ignored by the great army of small investors in America who have been frightened into selling their Liberty bonds at a loss, writes George S. Mumford, president of the Commonwealth Trust Company.

Mr. Mumford says that, unlike the French middle class, small investors in this country "will not buy and hold government bonds of small denominations."

"Probably no more unfortunate result for a nation-wide thrift campaign was ever known," he adds. "Since the armistice these small bonds have been thrown on the market to such an extent that there are now less than 10,000,000 bondholders, and some estimates put the number as low as 5,000,000. The total of those who subscribed was probably not far from 20,000,000."

William Jennings Bryan, in the third of the series of articles he is writing for the Boston Sunday Advertiser, advocates a national bulletin, published by the government, to keep the public fully and authentically informed on the issues of the day.

In order to express its will intelligently at the polls, Mr. Bryan argues, the public should be given a bi-partisan newspaper for 2½ cents a year which should present the issues unselfishly and impartially.

"The Irish question threatens not only the well-being of the British commonwealth but the well-being of the world, for the Anglo-American friendship on which the well-being of the world mainly rests cannot co-exist with the tragedy toward which Great Britain is drifting in Ireland," declares Alfred G. Gardner, editor of the London Daily News, and one of the most progressive thinkers in England.

Mr. Gardner blames Premier Lloyd George's "visionless and shady politics" for the aggravation of the situation in Ireland.
